Boy, 3, Unaware Mother Lies Dead

A 3-year-old Circleville boy played around the body of his dead 22-year-old mother for several hours yesterday before the tragedy was discovered by her husband.

Dead is Mrs. Charlotte Ann Petty, 22, 123 Hayward Ave., wife of Lloyd Petty Jr. She was a bookkeeper at the First National Bank. Death was due to a heart ailment according to Pickaway County Coroner Dr. Ray Carroll.

Mrs. Petty, according to the coroner, died yesterday morning. She apparently suffered a heart attack while sitting on a chair in the kitchen of her home. Cereal bowls were still on the table in the kitchen as she had apparently prepared breakfast.

The body was discovered at 4 p. m. yesterday by her husband who had left for work as a truck driver for Pickaway Dairy at 2 a. m. Their son, Ricky Lee, was with his mother's body in the house most of the day.

Mrs. Petty had been suffering from asthma for some time and had been to see her physician Monday.

SHE WAS A 1953 graduate of Jackson Twp. High School. The Petties were married in 1953. She was a member of Trinity Lutheran Church.

She was born in Hardin County June 28, 1935 the daughter of Chester and Hazel Clapham McCloud, who live on Hulse Road in Jackson Twp.

Other survivors are her grandmother, Mrs. Mary McCloud, Forest, O.; a brother, Chester McCloud, Columbus; two sisters, Mrs. Delores Hurley, Circleville, and Miss Kathleen McCloud, at her parents' home.

Services will be at 2 p. m. Friday in the Defenbaugh Funeral Home with the Rev. Carl Zehner officiating.

Burial will be in Jackson Twp. Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home after 1 p. m. Thursday.

Expanded Vanguard Program Pushed by Navy Scientists

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — Navy scientists forged ahead with plans for a bigger and better Vanguard rocket program today after learning that the latest launching was washed out by wire trouble.

Officials announced in Washington that the 72-foot rocket failed about 300 miles up when a malfunction developed in the electronic system of the second stage.

As a result, the rocket's third stage did not ignite after what appeared to be a successful launching Monday night. Instead of pushing the fourth U.S. satellite into orbit, Vanguard plummeted about 1,500 miles out at sea.

From telemetry data obtained during the flight, the Naval Research Laboratory learned that the rocket and its 20-inch spherical satellite fizzled because the "brain" in the second stage vehicle never beeped a signal to spark the final stage fuel propellant.

OFFICIALS speculated that an open wire somewhere within the complex structure of the second stage was the culprit.

The news assured project heads that the basic Vanguard workings behaved according to plan and that the Navy can go ahead with its stepped-up test program.

The new mission will be to launch a satellite in space — perhaps one a month in the immediate future. During the first seven Vanguard experiments the primary purpose was to test the rocket itself, not to orbit a man-made moon.

Meanwhile, several Titan ICBMs (their exact number a closely guarded military secret) already have been built and set up in a new vertical test facility near Denver.

Largest and most promising of the Air Force ballistic missiles, the two-stage, 6,300-mile-range Titan is to have its first test flight at Cape Canaveral later this year. The missile also has been proposed, with added stages, for flights to and around the moon.

A closeup exterior view of the 13-story test building was permitted Tuesday. The 400 military and civilian scientists, who concluded a three-day space symposium in Denver, visited the Martin Co. Titan plant in Littleton.

No visitor was allowed to see the missiles within the structure.

Ike Says Press Conference Is Fine U.S. Institution

WASHINGTON — At President Eisenhower's weekly press conference today, Reporter Edward Folliard told of a letter received by the editor of his newspaper, the Washington Post, saying the President of the United States should not be subjected to news conferences, that he already has enough problems without being heckled by the press.

Another view, Folliard said, is that the presidential news conference is one of the great institutions of a democracy.

Eisenhower joined in the laughter as Folliard asked to which school of thought the President belongs.

Eisenhower replied he emphatically lines up in the school which holds that the presidential news conference is a very fine latter day American institution.

Then he said he finds some of the questions put to him rather inconsequential, and suggested that such inquiries sometimes irritate him. But he added that the American public likes the sort of informal exchange which occurs at news conferences, and is interested in his thinking on various issues.

Eisenhower also was asked whether he thinks the trips he takes away from Washington have any effect on the handling of his job.

He replied that he can't see that it makes any difference whether he is handling government business in the White House or while out of town.

As for his absences from Washington, Eisenhower said the President of the United States has a right to go any place in the country he wants to. He added that he

Ike Cautious In Optimism About Upturn

Unemployment Drop Not Considered Sure Sign of Recovery

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower said today the April decline in unemployment cannot be interpreted as meaning for sure that the nation is on the road to recovery from the recession.

But he said at his press conference today that he believes there is continuing evidence the business slump is flattening out.

At last week's press conference, the President said he believed that the business recession has been flattening out for some time.

Asked by a reporter today about the possibility of an antirecession tax cut, Eisenhower stuck to his previous position—that the situation must have more study and analysis before a decision on that.

The first question put to Eisenhower was whether he believes the 78,000 decline in unemployment for the month ended in mid-April means that an economic upturn is underway.

THE PRESIDENT replied he does not think there is justification for such a categorical statement. He noted that when the employment and joblessness figures are adjusted for seasonal factors, there still is a good bit of unemployment.

Eisenhower then went on to say that in his view we can't assert that we are now on the high road to advance, or recovery from the recession.

In contrast to last week when his temper flared a couple of times, Eisenhower was in a mostly jovial mood today.

Eisenhower also said the policy of his administration is to have cleaner nuclear bombs.

Eisenhower declared that 40 per cent of the efforts in forthcoming Pacific tests will be devoted to ward eliminating as much as possible of the fallout from smaller nuclear weapons.

The President made his observation about American policy in response to a request for comment on a recent statement by Sen. Anderson (D-NM) that the United States is making some of its bombs dirtier while it talks of producing clean weapons.

EISENHOWER said that so far as he knows no military officer ever suggested making bombs dirtier.

The whole policy, he said, is to have cleaner bombs, ones that do not deal out such wide-spread mass destruction.

Eisenhower said the proportion of fallout from nuclear weapons depends at this time largely on the size of those weapons. He pointed out that it is inverse to the size.

Eisenhower said the big hydrogen bomb can be produced so that it has only 4 per cent fallout.

On the other hand, the President said, the fallout from very small bombs is about 100 per cent. Some of the forthcoming tests, Eisenhower indicated, are being directed toward cleaning up these smaller weapons so they can be used for tactical purposes.

Pay Hike Slated For Servicemen

WASHINGTON — Unanimous Senate action practically guaranteed an early pay increase for the nation's fighting men today, possibly by June.

The Senate, with little debate, passed a broad military pay incentive bill 87-0 Tuesday and returned it to the House for probable compromise talks.

Rep. Kilday (D-Tex.), generally credited with drafting the bill previously passed by the House, indicated the Senate measure was not acceptable. He said he probably would seek a Senate-House conference committee to work out a compromise.

All indications, however, pointed to an early agreement.

The Bureau of Unemployment Compensation said the number drawing jobless benefits as of last Saturday was 225,433. A week earlier the total was 221,422.

The number of new claims filed last week, however, dropped more than 4,000 below the total for the previous week. There were 27,468 new claims last week.

Ohio 'Mother' Selected

COLUMBUS — Mrs. Nicholas Spiros of Campbell has been named Ohio's Mother of the Year for 1958 by the American Mothers' Committee of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Unemployment Shows Slight Decline, But Demand for Action Continues

WASHINGTON — A spring increase in outdoor work has brought a slight drop in joblessness, but no letup in demands for government antirecession action.

Releasing its figures 10 days earlier than usual, the Commerce Department said unemployment dropped 78,000 during April—the first decline since last October but far short of the normal 300,000 decline from March to April.

The report was issued as the House prepared to debate a bill for extension of jobless benefits.

One of the hottest legislative battles of the present Congress was in prospect before the final vote is cast late this week.

"We have a real fight on our hands," conceded Rep. Forand

(D-R), a leader of the Democratic forces backing a measure to pay federal jobless grants to the vast majority of the nation's five million unemployed.

Ranged against it were most House Republicans and a substantial number of Democrats who think either that the bill does not go far enough, or that it goes too far.

The issue, however, was expected to narrow down to the program of temporary unemployment relief loans to the states as proposed by President Eisenhower, and the sweeping program of federal grants proposed by the Democrats.

Both proposals would be temporary, expiring next year. The Democratic proposal carries a $1½ billion price tag. The Administration's program is figured to cost about $800 million, which the Treasury would get back from the states.

Along with the April jobless total of 5,120,000, the Commerce Department reported an increase of 596,000 in employment to a new total of 62,907,000 persons working.

Secretary of Commerce Weeks said nearly all the gain in employment resulted from the usual spring pickup in agriculture and other outdoor activities.

Paradoxically, although unemployment declined, the report said the percentage of jobless persons increased from 7 per cent in March to 7½ per cent in April on a seasonally adjusted basis, which takes into account a number of statistical factors.

AFL-CIO President George Meany, referring especially to the less than normal drop in unemployment, said the report proves the recession continues to worsen.

Meany, calling anew for prompt antirecession legislation, said: "Immediate action to improve and extend unemployment compensation and to cut taxes on low and middle income individuals is essential if America is to be put back to work."

In a similar vein, the Democratic Advisory Council urged a tax cut of $3 billion in lower income brackets, plus new billions in public spending and a further drop in interest rates.

No Compromise On Basic Idea To Get His OK

Ineffectiveness Of Military Setup Feared by President

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower said today any basic compromise on his defense reorganization plan would mean a retreat to a dangerous degree of military ineffectiveness.

Eisenhower told his news conference he is not rigid about the wording of any defense reorganization bill. But he said it would be all wrong to change the basic principles of the plan he sent to Congress.

While the President was stating his views the proposal continued under fire in a hearing before the House Armed Services Committee.

Influential members of that group oppose its concentration of authority in the office of the secretary of defense and the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Just before the news conference opened Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Army chief of staff, conceded in the hearing that the plan could reduce the civilian secretaries of the individual armed services to the status of flunkies.

BUT TAYLOR said that wouldn't happen unless authority carried in the bill was misused. Eisenhower said either we are going to do the right thing or we are not.

He said every single concession possible to make toward the individual pride and morale of each of the services had been made before he submitted his program.

Taylor told the Armed Services Committee the Army still is acting as "executive agent" for several of these commands. Eisenhower wants the command structure to bypass the individual service in such cases, so that authority would be exerted direct from the secretary of defense and Joint Chiefs of Staff to the troops in the field.

Rep. Price (D-Ill.) commented that the episode shows "this legislation is just an alibi for poor leadership."

Administration spokesmen told the committee Eisenhower had authority to make the command change under present law, but wanted legislative adjustments to make administration of the new system easier. Among these would be a staff increase.

But Price said, "What is needed isn't legislation, it's action by the people who have the responsibility to run that department."

Rep. Hebert (D-La.) agreed that "we need leadership and direction" rather than statutory changes increasing the authority of the secretary of defense.

Banker Says Bottom Not Yet Reached

WASHINGTON — A banker-economist said today the recession should hit bottom soon with some degree of recovery this year.

The decline is moderating, said Alan H. Temple, executive vice president of the First National City Bank of New York, but statements that it has already touched bottom "must still be based on faith rather than on fact."

Temple's estimates, prepared for the annual meeting of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, were less optimistic than some from administration spokesmen.

Secretary of Commerce Weeks 10 days ago said he believed the bottom already has been reached and the recovery will come by late summer. President Eisenhower last week said the recession has been "flattening out for some time."

Another speaker, Rep. Richard M. Simpson (R-Pa.), a member of the House Ways and Means Committee, said that huge federal spending programs, as an anti-recession cure, would be folly. He favors tax reduction.

Ohio Road Toll Down

COLUMBUS — Highway accidents in Ohio claimed 127 lives last month, 16 per cent fewer than the 157 who died in highway accidents during March 1957, highway safety department records show.

Copilot Lands Crippled Jet

Flier Refuses To Leave Unconscious Officer

ABILENE, Tex. — A young Air Force copilot, his B47 jet bomber afire and the top canopy blown off, braved subzero weather and wind that seared his eyeballs to land the plane here Monday night rather than abandon an unconscious fellow officer.

First Lt. James E. Obenauf, 24, Grayslake, Ill., made a perfect landing while flying from the blind copilot's seat, something the Strategic Air Command said had been considered impossible because he is behind a solid bulkhead and cannot see forward.

The B47 was in a training flight from Amarillo to Denver. At 30,000 feet, near Dalhart, Tex., one of its six jet engines caught fire.

First Lt. John P. Cobb, 25, Elko, Nev., navigator, bailed out through the escape hatch.

Maj. James M. Graves, 38, Fort Worth, the pilot, blasted off the top canopy. His ejection seat did not work and he bailed out through the nose escape hatch.

Obenauf's ejection seat also failed to work. On his way to the nose he discovered Maj. James E. Maxwell, 32, Portsmouth, Va., navigation instructor, unconscious and his oxygen mask off.

UNABLE to get Maxwell through the hatch, Obenauf returned to his copilot's position. The controls there were the only ones working.

There he was flying blind with the wind whipping through the cabin at 400 miles an hour. Ground control stations gave him his position and permission to fly 300 miles to Dyess Air Force Base here, his home base. He made a perfect landing.

He and Maxwell were hospitalized for shock, frost bite and burning eyes. Their condition was reported good.

Graves and Cobb landed on ranches near Dalhart. They suffered bruises.

Murder Is Hinted In Torch Death

BELLEVILLE — Authorities continued today to investigate the death of a 41-year-old Belleville woman whose charred body was found in a wooded area near here.

Circumstances surrounding the death indicate she may have been murdered, authorities say.

Mrs. Eleanor Jenkins was found dead Monday night about four miles from here. Sheriff's deputies said gasoline had been poured on her and ignited.

Sheriff Fred Foerster said he plans to question further the victim's husband, Jesse, an unemployed railroad.

Boy, 16, Takes Dare; It Costs Both Legs

BOSTON, Mass. — Surgeons today amputated both legs of a 16-year-old Taunton boy who was burned when he contacted a 13,000-volt wire as he climbed a tower near his home on a dare.

The condition of the boy, Edward Masterson, was reported as fair after the operation.

The boy, who climbed the 40-foot structure Tuesday afternoon, suffered leg burns.

Envoys Ponder Move by Dag

U.N. Aide Intervenes In U.S.-Soviet Fuss

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. — Diplomats speculated today on the effect U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld's Security Council intervention on behalf of the U.S. arctic inspection plan will have on the veto-wielding Soviets.

Hammarskjöld, who normally goes in for private diplomacy, surprised everyone Tuesday night with an unprecedented endorsement before the council of the U.S. proposal opposed by the Soviets.

Speaking briefly at the close of debate, the secretary general told the 11-nation Council he welcomed the U.S. initiative in proposing that the northern area be put under international inspection against surprise attack. He expressed hope the proposal might break the current disarmament stalemate.

Soviet Delegate Arkady Sobolev listened tight-lipped. The U.S.S.R. was expected to give some indication of her reaction when the Council resumes debate Friday.

SOBOLEV HAD denounced the U.S. resolution as an effort to divert public opinion from Soviet charges that peace is endangered by flights of U.S. nuclear bombers across the arctic toward Soviet soil. He introduced a counter resolution to pass the U.S. proposal on to a summit conference.

In Moscow, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko derided the U.S. proposal as a "matter of sheer publicity" and a move to get intelligence data on Soviet arctic territory.

4,000 More Ohioans Added to Idle List

COLUMBUS — Another 4,000 Ohioans were added to the unemployment compensation rolls last week.

The Bureau of Unemployment Compensation said the number drawing jobless benefits as of last Saturday was 225,433. A week earlier the total was 221,422.

The number of new claims filed last week, however, dropped more than 4,000 below the total for the previous week. There were 27,468 new claims last week.

Are Fireplugs Out of Bounds?

NEW YORK — Sanitation experts were called into session today to discuss plans for dog comfort stations in city streets.

The canine commodes are planned for residential neighborhoods where people keep substantial numbers of the city's 272,000 dogs and where curbing of dogs is difficult because of parked cars.

Sanitation Commissioner Paul R. Screvane called the conference as part of his current "Big Sweep" cleanup campaign.

His craftsmen have prepared several experimental models of dog comfort stations.

Taft Backer 'Besieged' by Help Offers

COLUMBUS — A spokesman for the "Taft for Governor Volunteers" issued a statement today saying he had been "besieged with requests from Republicans asking how they can help."

Dale W. Stump, chairman of the group, said he would outline the volunteer Taft campaign tonight on Columbus radio station WRVN.

Funds for this broadcast, he said, have been made available in small contributions since announcement of the opening of campaign headquarters here.

Charles P. Taft of Cincinnati will oppose Gov. C. William O'Neill for the Republican gubernatorial nomination May 6. When he filed for the nomination, he said he was doing so only as a "stand in" candidate in the event Gov. O'Neill became ill and is unable to run. The governor has recovered from a heart attack last January.

Last Monday night Howard I. Chesler, Cleveland attorney, told a television audience in Akron that Taft is a "major candidate." But in Cincinnati, Taft disclaimed any knowledge of the statements made in his behalf. In reply to Chesler's statement that Taft was much more than a standby candidate, Taft said "I'm still sitting on the same seat."

Taft has not engaged in a campaign for the nomination.

On the other hand, the President said, the fallout from very small bombs is about 100 per cent.

Some of the forthcoming tests, Eisenhower indicated are being directed toward cleaning up these smaller weapons so they can be used for tactical purposes.

Pay Hike Slated For Servicemen

WASHINGTON — Unanimous Senate action practically guaranteed an early pay increase for the nation's fighting men today, possibly by June.

The Senate, with little debate, passed a broad military pay increase bill 87-0 Tuesday and returned it to the House for probable compromise talks.

Rep. Kilday (D-Tex.), generally credited with drafting the bill previously passed by the House, indicated the Senate measure was not acceptable. He said he probably would seek a Senate-House conference committee to work out a compromise.

All indications, however, pointed to an early agreement.

Ohio 'Mother' Selected

COLUMBUS — Mrs. Micholas Spirtos of Campbell has been named Ohio's Mother of the Year for 1958 by the American Mothers' Committee of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Unemployment Shows Slight Decline, But Demand for Action Continues

WASHINGTON — A spring increase in outdoor work has brought a slight drop in joblessness, but no letup in demands for government antirecession action.

Releasing its figures 10 days earlier than usual, the Commerce Department said unemployment dropped 78,000 during April—the first decline since last October but far short of the normal 300,000 decline from March to April.

The report was issued as the House prepared to debate a bill for extension of jobless benefits.

One of the hottest legislative battles of the present Congress was in prospect before the final vote is cast late this week.

"We have a real fight on our hands," conceded Rep. Ford and (D-R), a leader of the Democratic forces backing a measure to pay federal jobless grants to the vast majority of the nation's five million unemployed.

Ranged against it were most House Republicans and a substantial number of Democrats who think either that the bill does not go far enough, or that it goes too far.

The issue, however, was expected to narrow down to the program of temporary unemployment relief loans to the states as proposed by President Eisenhower, and the sweeping program of federal grants proposed by the Democrats. Both proposals would be temporary, expiring next year.

The Democratic proposal carries a $1½ billion price tag. The Administration's program is figured to cost about $800 million, which the Treasury would get back from the states.

Along with the April jobless total of 5,120,000, the Commerce Department reported an increase of 596,000 in employment to a new total of 62,907,000 persons working.

Secretary of Commerce Weeks said nearly all the gain in employment resulted from the usual spring pickup in agriculture and other outdoor activities.

Paradoxically, although unemployment declined, the report said the percentage of jobless persons increased from 7 per cent in March to 7½ per cent in April on a seasonally adjusted basis, which takes into account a number of statistical factors.

AFL-CIO President George Meany, referring especially to the less than normal drop in unemployment, said the report proves the recession continues to worsen.

Meany, calling anew for prompt antirecession legislation, said: "Immediate action to improve and extend unemployment compensation and to cut taxes on low and middle income individuals is essential if America is to be put back to work."

In a similar vein, the Democratic Advisory Council urged a tax cut of $3 billion in lower income brackets, plus new billions in public spending and a further drop in interest rates.

No Compromise On Basic Idea To Get His OK

Ineffectiveness Of Military Setup Feared by President

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower said today any basic compromise on his defense reorganization plan would mean a retreat to a dangerous degree of military ineffectiveness.

Eisenhower told his news conference he is not rigid about the wording of any defense reorganization bill. But he said it would be all wrong to change the basic principles of the plan he sent to Congress.

While the President was stating his views the proposal continued under fire in a hearing before the House Armed Services Committee. Influential members of that group oppose its concentration of authority in the office of the secretary of defense and the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Just before the news conference opened Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Army chief of staff, conceded in the hearing that the plan could reduce the civilian secretaries of the individual armed services to the status of flunkies.

BUT TAYLOR said that wouldn't happen unless authority carried in the bill was misused. Eisenhower said either we are going to do the right thing or we are not.

He said every single concession possible to make toward the individual pride and morale of each of the services had been made before he submitted his program.

Taylor told the Armed Services Committee the Army still is acting as "executive agent" for several of these commands. Eisenhower wants the command structure to bypass the individual service in such cases, so that authority would be exerted direct from the secretary of defense and Joint Chiefs of Staff to the troops in the field.

Rep. Price (D-Ill.) commented that the episode shows "this legislation is just an alibi for poor leadership."

Administration spokesmen told the committee Eisenhower had authority to make the command change under present law, but wanted legislative adjustments to make administration of the new system easier. Among these would be a staff increase.

But Price said, "What is needed isn't legislation, it's action by the people who have the responsibility to run that department."

Rep. Hebert (D-La.) agreed that "we need leadership and direction" rather than statutory changes increasing the authority of the secretary of defense.

Banker Says Bottom Not Yet Reached

WASHINGTON — A banker-economist said today the recession should hit bottom soon with some degree of recovery this year.

The decline is moderating, said Alan H. Temple, executive vice president of the First National City Bank of New York, but statements that it has already touched bottom "must still be based on faith rather than on fact."

Temple's estimates, prepared for the annual meeting of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, were less optimistic than some from administration spokesmen.

Secretary of Commerce Weeks 10 days ago said he believed the bottom already has been reached and the recovery will come by late summer. President Eisenhower last week said the recession has been "flattening out for some time."

Another speaker, Rep. Richard M. Simpson (R-Pa.), a member of the House Ways and Means Committee, said that huge federal spending programs, as an anti-recession cure, would be folly. He favors tax reduction.

Ohio Road Toll Down

COLUMBUS — Highway accidents in Ohio claimed 127 lives last month, 16 per cent fewer than the 157 who died in highway accidents during March 1957, highway safety department records show.

Copilot Lands Crippled Jet

Flier Refuses To Leave Unconscious Officer

ABILENE, Tex. — A young Air Force copilot, his B47 jet bomber afire and the top canopy blown off, braved subzero weather and wind that seared his eyeballs to land the plane here Monday night rather than abandon an unconscious fellow officer.

First Lt. James E. Obenauf, 24, Grayslake, Ill., made a perfect landing while flying from the blind copilot's seat, something the Strategic Air Command said had been considered impossible because he is behind a solid bulkhead and cannot see forward.

The B47 was in a training flight from Amarillo to Denver. At 30,000 feet, near Dalhart, Tex., one of its six jet engines caught fire.

First Lt. John P. Cobb, 25, Elko, Nev., navigator, bailed out through the escape hatch.

Maj. James M. Graves, 38, Fort Worth, the pilot, blasted off the top canopy. His ejection seat did not work and he bailed out through the nose escape hatch.

Obenauf's ejection seat also failed to work. On his way to the nose he discovered Maj. James E. Maxwell, 32, Portsmouth, Va., navigation instructor, unconscious and his oxygen mask off.

UNABLE to get Maxwell through the hatch, Obenauf returned to his copilot's position. The controls there were the only ones working.

There he was flying blind with the wind whipping through the cabin at 400 miles an hour. Ground control stations gave him his position and permission to fly 300 miles to Dyess Air Force Base here, his home base. He made a perfect landing.

He and Maxwell were hospitalized for shock, frost bite and burning eyes. Their condition was reported good.

Graves and Cobb landed on ranches near Dalhart. They suffered bruises.

Murder Is Hinted In Torch Death

BELLEFONTAINE — Authorities continued today to investigate the death of a 41-year-old Bellefontaine woman whose charred body was found in a wooded area near here.

Circumstances surrounding the death indicate she may have been murdered, authorities say.

Mrs. Eleanor Jenkins was found dead Monday night about four miles from here. Sheriff's deputies said gasoline had been poured on her and ignited.

Sheriff Fred Foerster said he plans to question further the victim's husband, Jesse, an unemployed railroad worker.

Boy, 16, Takes Dare; It Costs Both Legs

BOSTON, Mass. — Surgeons today amputated both legs of a 16-year-old Taunton boy who was burned when he climbed a 13,000-volt wire as he climbed a tower near his home on a dare.

The condition of the boy, Edward Masterson, was reported as fair after the operation.

The boy, who climbed the 40-foot structure Tuesday afternoon, suffered leg burns.

Envoys Ponder Move by Dag

U.N. Aide Intervenes In U.S.-Soviet Fuss

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. — Diplomats speculated today on the effect U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld's Security Council intervention on behalf of the U.S. arctic inspection plan will have on the veto-wielding Soviets.

Hammarskjöld, who normally goes in for private diplomacy, surprised everyone Tuesday night with an unprecedented endorsement before the council of the U.S. proposal opposed by the Soviets.

Speaking briefly at the close of debate, the secretary general told the 11-nation Council he welcomed the U.S. initiative in proposing that the northern area be put under international inspection against surprise attack. He expressed hope the proposal might break the current disarmament stalemate.

Soviet Delegate Arkady Sobolev listened tight-lipped. The U.S.S.R. was expected to give some indication of her reaction when the Council resumes debate Friday.

SOBOLEV had denounced the U.S. resolution as an effort to divert public opinion from Soviet charges that peace is endangered by flights of U.S. nuclear bombers across the arctic toward Soviet soil. He introduced a counter resolution to pass the U.S. proposal on to a summit conference.

In Moscow, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko derided the U.S. proposal as a "matter of sheer publicity" and a move to get intelligence data on Soviet arctic territory.

4,000 More Ohioans Added to Idle List

COLUMBUS — Another 4,000 Ohioans were added to the unemployment compensation rolls last week.

The Bureau of Unemployment Compensation said the number drawing jobless benefits as of last Saturday was 225,433. A week earlier the total was 221,422.

The number of new claims filed last week, however, dropped more than 4,000 below the total for the previous week. There were 27,668 new claims last week.

Are Fireplugs Out of Bounds?

NEW YORK — Sanitation experts were called into session today to discuss plans for dog comfort stations in city streets.

The canine command is planned for residential neighborhoods where people keep substantial numbers of the city's 272,000 dogs and where curbing of dogs is difficult because of parked cars.

Sanitation Commissioner Paul R. Screvane called the conference as part of his current "Big Sweep" cleanup campaign.

His craftsmen have prepared several experimental models of dog comfort stations.

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: Four months ago we had three people stay with us for two weeks, after they had given up their house and were awaiting overseas orders. Eventually they left us, with only very mild thanks for their board-and-room; and not one word have I heard from them since.

Also, about half the persons to whom I sent Christmas gifts have failed to acknowledge the gesture so far—I've never even had a note to say that the things arrived.

Then, recently, some friends from another state invited themselves to spend the Easter holidays with us. They used our home as a place in which to eat and sleep, between going their merry way sightseeing. Four extra persons can make a lot of work on that schedule.

As they departed I said the usual goodbyes, and how nice it was to have had them. Their farewell wasn't a thank-you for our hospitality; instead they said "We hope that you've enjoyed having us!"

My husband thinks I am being unreasonable, in expecting people to say a simple "thank you." I was brought up to believe it is very rude not to express a verbal "thank you" for any little courtesies done for me; and that it is inexcusable not to write "thank you" notes. Am I asking too much, in wanting to receive as much consideration as I give?

B.L.

DEAR B.L.: No doubt you've heard the folk saying about a woman's being a doormat and letting people walk over her. Perhaps this is somewhat the figure you cut, in the estimate of acquaintances (one could hardly call them friends) who take advantage of your friendly disposition, and fail to say thank you.

You are a housewife in very modest circumstances, I gather. And from the angle of common sense (which implies fair consideration for all concerned), I think you were overdoing a good thing in letting those three people move in on you, while they were awaiting travel orders. Evidently their purpose was simply to save money at your expense—since a hotel or motel might have been chosen, had they wished to spare you.

Again you overdid, on the score of long suffering, in cooking and providing sleeping accommodations for the quartette of tourists from out of state, who camped on your premises Easter weekend, without invitation. And who treated the place as a refueling stop between sightseeing rounds, and had the audacity to make an open joke of their presumption, by quipping: "We hope you've enjoyed having us."

It would have been quite sufficient to provide them with beds, and possibly breakfast, and let them find lunches and dinners outside. Any polite excuse on your part, for refusing to slave at the kitchen stove, three meals a day, would have been justified.

It is axiomatic that selfish people don't respect or appreciate their victims—rather they tend to think of them as an inferior and a weaker breed, for putting up with crass injustice.

Your husband probably meant to say that it is unrealistic (rather than unreasonable) to expect moocher-type folks to be as courteous as you are kindly. If people are courteous by habit, they don't impose. Whereas the self-serving type hardly bothers to be "nice," except when trying to make hay with others of that ilk.

In conclusion, I must say that I think your philosophy of giving is faulty. If you can't give without counting the cost, and wanting a show of appreciation, it would be healthier and more honest to simply cut out these extra flourishes. Treat others as economically as they treat you.

Faubus To Appeal To High Court

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — Gov. Orval Faubus plans to appeal to the U. S. Supreme Court for legal support of his move blocking integration at Little Rock Central High School last fall by use of Arkansas National Guard troops. The 8th U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals at St. Louis Monday upheld a U. S. District Court decree prohibiting Faubus from interfering with the court-ordered integration plan.

Dist. Judge Ronald N. Davies, then sitting on temporary assignment in Arkansas, issued the injunction Sept. 20, after Faubus' soldiers had blocked entry of nine Negroes for 18 days.

"Mary Hawthorth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: Four months ago we had three people stay with us for two weeks, after they had given up their house and were awaiting overseas orders. Eventually they left us, with only very mild thanks for their board-and-room; and not one word have I heard from them since.

Also, about half the persons to whom I sent Christmas gifts have failed to acknowledge the gesture so far—I've never even had a note to say that the things arrived.

Then, recently, some friends from another state invited themselves to spend the Easter holidays with us. They used our home as a place in which to eat and sleep, between going their merry way sightseeing. Four extra persons can make a lot of work on that schedule.

As they departed I said the usual goodbyes, and how nice it was to have had them. Their farewell wasn't a thank-you for our hospitality; instead they said "We hope that you've enjoyed having us!"

My husband thinks I am being unreasonable, in expecting people to say a simple "thank you." I was brought up to believe it is very rude not to express a verbal "thank you" for any little courtesies done for me; and that it is inexcusable not to write "thank you" notes. Am I asking too much, in wanting to receive as much consideration as I give?

B.L.

DEAR B.L.: No doubt you've heard the folk saying about a woman's being a doormat and letting people walk over her. Perhaps this is somewhat the figure you cut, in the estimate of acquaintances (one could hardly call them friends) who take advantage of your friendly disposition, and fail to say thank you.

You are a housewife in very modest circumstances, I gather. And from the angle of common sense (which implies fair consideration for all concerned), I think you were overdoing a good thing in letting those three people move in on you, while they were awaiting travel orders. Evidently their purpose was simply to save money at your expense—since a hotel or motel might have been chosen, had they wished to spare you.

Again you overdid, on the score of long suffering, in cooking and providing sleeping accommodations for the quartette of tourists from out of state, who camped on your premises Easter weekend, without invitation. And who treated the place as a refueling stop between sightseeing rounds, and had the audacity to make an open joke of their presumption, by quipping: "We hope you've enjoyed having us."

Plainly they knew they were badly imposing; and evidently they sensed that you were torn between hospitable inclinations and suppressed impatience at their intrusion.

It would have been quite sufficient to provide them with beds, and possibly breakfast, and let them find lunches and dinners outside. Any polite excuse on your part, for refusing to slave at the kitchen stove, three meals a day, would have been justified.

It is axiomatic that selfish people don't respect or appreciate their victims—rather they tend to think of them as an inferior and a weaker breed, for putting up with crass injustice.

Your husband probably meant to say that it is unrealistic (rather than unreasonable) to expect moocher-type folks to be as courteous as you are kindly. In conclusion, I must say that I think your philosophy of giving is faulty. If you can't give without counting the cost, and wanting a show of appreciation, it would be healthier and more honest to simply cut out these extra flourishes. Treat others as economically as they treat you.

Fewer Dead, More Injured

Fewer Americans were killed in highway accidents last year than in 1956 but so many more were injured that the 1957 casualty figure was the highest in the nation's history.

The total of 2,563,700 casualties—38,700 of them fatalities—lists one in every 67 Americans killed or injured in traffic last year.

If this is sobering, or at least surprising, here is something else to give pause. Most of the accidents that caused injury or death occurred under conditions which ordinarily are considered to contribute to safety.

Statistics compiled by the Travelers Insurance Companies show that 95 per cent of the deaths occurred when the roadway was dry.

It is of interest, too, that three-fourths of the drivers involved in fatal crashes were 25 years of age or older. And all but 3.4 per cent had a year or more driving experience.

Of course, these figures should be put in proper focus. It is no secret, for example, that good weather results in heavy traffic, and that most drivers are experienced. But they are a reminder, nevertheless, that human faults—drivers' errors—were to blame for the bulk of 1957's driving casualties.

Thus the statistics for last year list speed as the cause of 13,200 deaths. Drivers who took to the wrong side of the road accounted for the next highest number of dead—5,450. These who did not have the right-of-way added 3,900 to the toll. There were 3,810 persons who died in cars driven off the road and 3,530 victims of reckless driving.

Statistics such as these serve to help police and safety officials plan their continuing fight against death and injury on the highways and streets. To the average driver they may be unpleasant—even disturbing—reading.

If they are disturbing enough to lead some drivers to avoid the pitfalls that kill or cripple, that is reason enough to cite them.

"He was burning the mortgage."

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

THE ASSOCIATED GHOSTS of Northern Scotland were having a reunion. It was a bitter cold night, and every time another ghost flung open the door, a blast of frigid air swept through the hall. "Confound those inconsiderate members!" grumbled a delicate old ghost finally. "Why must they keep opening that door? What do they think the keyhole is for?"

A Wall Street stock manipulator was delighted to meet a college classmate on a Washington-bound plane one morning. "How ya' doing?" inquired the friend jovially. "Just great!" boomed the manipulator. "Never had it so good. What's your line now?" "Didn't you hear?" asked the friend. "I'm the new Assistant Collector of Internal Revenue."

The manipulator explained hastily, "I meant I never had it so good spiritually, of course—not materially."

New Drugs Make Headlines

By Herman N. Bundesen, M.D.

Three medicines which give promise of making life a lot safer and much more comfortable are among the recent developments which I would like to discuss today in our regular monthly review of medical advances.

Midicel is a new sulfa compound which reportedly has a therapeutic advantage over the older sulfonamides. Midicel is the trade name for sulfamethoxypyridazine. It's reported that this drug is particularly effective in treating persons with urinary tract infections.

Evidence thus far indicates that it is effective also in treating respiratory infections, lung abscesses and bacteria dysentery. And it can be used as a prophylactic against recurrence of rheumatic fever.

A big advantage is that smaller doses are required than with other sulfonamides. It is available only through a doctor's prescription.

Perhenazine is a powerful new drug which may replace the usual widely-used tranquilizers. Trade name for this drug is Trilafon.

It belongs to the same family as the broadly used chlorpromazine tranquilizers, but it is reported to be from five to ten times more potent. It also requires smaller doses and produces fewer side effects. It is available by prescription only.

A medicine named Thorexin is a new product for symptomatic treatment of caughs.

It does not contain codeine, one of the most common cough suppressants. Instead, it contains dextromethorphan hydrobromide and a combination of expectorant and demulcent agents.

Unlike codeine, investigators say, dextromethorphan hydrobromide is non-narcotic. And they report it does not have the gastrointestinal side effects usually associated with opiates such as codeine.

It will be available soon for over-the-counter sale.

Question and Answer

H. B.: I have a ring of whitish material on each eyeball around the pupil. Is this due to hardening of the arteries?

Answer: The ring you speak about is probably due to a fat deposit within the eye. This has not been proven to be due to hardening of the arteries except in a few cases.

Better consult your doctor.

O'Daniel Itching Again

DALLAS (AP) — W. Lee (Pappy) O'Daniel, colorful campaigner who stages rallies with fire trucks and hillbilly bands, said Tuesday night he wants to try for the governorship of Texas again.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — The recession is beginning to look like a little green man in a space suit, with the Eisenhower administration and the Democratic leaders in Congress wondering goggle-eyed which way he's going.

Both are going less than all-out to fight the recession, although each side has blamed the other for not doing more.

At the moment President Eisenhower is sitting tight, hoping things will get better before they get worse so he won't have to ask for a tax cut.

The loss of revenue from a tax reduction would throw the government deeper in the red than it's heading away.

And Sen. Lyndon Johnson of

Texas, the Senate's Democratic leader, while calling for greater effort by the administration, isn't rushing into a tax cut either.

For that matter, he couldn't. Tinkering with taxes must under the Constitution start in the House. And the leader of the House Democrats, Speaker Rayburn of Texas, isn't talking cuts right now any more than Eisenhower is.

Both sides are in the same dilemma; economists don't agree on which way the recession is heading. This reduces the grand field of economics to a kind of glorified guessing game.

Meanwhile, the administration gave national hopes for better days a kind of apothetical blood transfusion.

Secretary of Commerce Weeks rushed out Tuesday with figures — which ordinarily wouldn't be available for another 10 days — to show unemployment in April had dropped numerically below the March figures.

His figures showed unemployment dropped 78,000 below March. That still leaves 5,100,000 people out of jobs. And the figures raise a question.

This is the beginning of warm weather when unemployment traditionally drops a bit because more jobs open up.

So the question is: Has unemployment for this time of year dropped enough to show things are on the upturn?

The answer is no. For while unemployment dropped numerically the rate of unemployment — for this time of year — has increased from 7 to 7½ per cent. AFL-CIO President George Meany said Weeks' figures show the recession "continues to worsen."

Earlier in the week Meany saw things getting worse anyway and he doesn't think either Republicans or Democrats are doing enough against the recession just as it stands now.

He has called for improved and extended unemployment pay and tax cuts now. Not all economists agree this is the time for a cut. And the administration is still sticking to the no-cut-yet school of thought.

What plagues both parties are these problems:

A tax cut now—if somehow the recession was in its invisible ways beginning to slack off — might cause inflation by throwing more money around.

But holding off on a cut — until the recession is indisputably getting worse — might make it too late to do any good because by then the economy might be in a tailspin.

One more month ought to give an answer to which way the little green man is headed.

Golden Weddings Increasing

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

That grandpa and grandma were only half as likely to live to celebrate their golden wedding anniversary as a young couple marrying today. The chances in 1900 that a bridegroom of 25 and a bride of 21 would survive 50 more years was only 123 per 1,000 marriages. Now it's 296 per 1,000.

That the Eskimos have no native word for snow.

That 14 million American men can't swim.

That the first hospitals were established in Ceylon five centuries before Christ.

That there is a hardware dealer in the Bronx named J. Bolts.

That singer Lisa Kirk points out a man "can marry a fashion plate and still not get a nice dish."

That since the dawn of time the most popular color for decorating has been red. It's still a prevalent hue in bank balances.

That dogs never had it better, as witness: No pooches are allowed in the giant Meramec Caverns at Stanton, Mo. But the management has set up a special room with toys where the dogs wait in comfort while their owners trudge through the cave.

That job offers for 1958 college graduates are lagging far behind those available to the 1957 class at this time a year ago.

That it's so cold in Siberia frozen milk is sold wrapped in paper, just like bread.

That the custom of tipping one's hat has more behind it than male gallantry. As long ago as the Crusades armored knights raised the visor of their helmets in passing to determine whether the other guy was friend or foe.

A Money Scattering Episode

By George Sokolsky

I read a broadcast from Panama City which tells a mighty tale about all the money that we are scattering about the world with little concern for what happens to it. Let me repeat the Panama story:

"This is the story of an incident that occurred in the capital of our country; we shall call it the story of the lost building."

"This building, which was a large one and which contained recreational facilities, such as an ice rink, dance hall, gymnasium, and so forth, was sold to the Panama City administration by the U.S. government for one balboa. The understanding was that the building was to be moved to another site, where it could be used by the children for their activities."

"But what happened? The building has disappeared, and the lot on which it was to be re-erected is being used for commercial purposes. No one knows what happened to the building; no one knows why the new lot, which was set aside for the relocation of the building, is being used for profits; no one knows why children have been deprived of the use of both the building and the new lot. Attempts have been made to find answers to these questions, but we have always been given idiotic answers. In the meantime, what happened to the building? Who is profiting from all this?"

A balboa is worth $1.00. It is a sad tale of our generosity going astray.

I was reading a speech — a sort of annual report—delivered by Tito to the Federal People's Assembly on April 19, in which he said:

"Part of the (military) requirements has been supplied from the aid received since 1951 from the United States. As is known, receipt of this aid was suspended in December last year after a mutual agreement at our request, because that military aid was no longer in accord with our foreign policy, the policy of coexistence, in the changed international situation."

In a word, when we aided this fellow up to the tune of $1,000,000,000, he felt that he was doing us a favor by accepting the aid. He will now do us no more favors. We can keep our tanks and planes and whatnots.

In fact, Tito regards Soviet Russia's competition with us in the give-away business as particularly notable. Let me quote his words:

"In the field of so-called international economy and technical aid, a significant moment came when the Soviet Union started granting aid on a broad international plan. . . ."

This cost the United States about $1,000,000,000 before our officials in Washington discovered that Tito continued to belong to the Soviet world, that his quarrel was personal with Stalin, and that once Stalin died, the quarrel is no more. Note his own comments on the subject:

"A great event of broad international significance was the visit paid by a Soviet delegation headed by Comrade Khrushchev to our country, as well as the regulation of the relations between the two countries and the visit of our delegation to the Soviet Union."

The time has surely come for a restudy of the give-away program, call it by whatever name. It was surely devised originally, in the form of Lend-Lease, to assist our allies in war. It has been exaggerated into a worldwide eleemosynary effort to aid remote and distant countries to achieve by one hop-skip and jump to an agricultural and industrial plateau similar to ours.

We have sought to expend money to bring all the world to a common standard of living, which can only mean dragging down the countries of noble cultures to the standards of the Polynesian fishermen of remote Pacific islands.

This program never made much sense but was an expression of American sentimentality which we all delight in and undoubtedly explains why we contribute more to private charity after paying enormous taxes than any people on Earth. It is the way we are constituted and as long as we have the money, who can complain?

It is only when we hit troubled times, like these, when cash in hand is less than usual, that we begin to look around to see what we can do to save a buck here and there. And we expect the same of our government. Before this depression is over, the United States may have to drop many of its outlandish philanthropies.

If It's A Question of Insurance See Us

Fewer Dead, More Injured

Fewer Americans were killed in highway accidents last year than in 1956 but so many more were injured that the 1957 casualty figure was the highest in the nation's history.

The total of 2,563,700 casualties—38,700 of them fatalities—lists one in every 67 Americans killed or injured in traffic last year.

If this is sobering, or at least surprising, here is something else to give pause. Most of the accidents that caused injury or death occurred under conditions which ordinarily are considered to contribute to safety.

Statistics compiled by the Travelers Insurance Companies show that 95 per cent of the deaths occurred when the roadway was dry.

It is of interest, too, that three-fourths of the drivers involved in fatal crashes were 25 years of age or older. And all but 3.4 per cent had a year or more driving experience.

Of course, these figures should be put in proper focus. It is no secret, for example, that good weather results in heavy traffic, and that most drivers are experienced. But they are a reminder, nevertheless, that human faults—drivers' errors—were to blame for the bulk of 1957's driving casualties.

Thus the statistics for last year list speed as the cause of 13,200 deaths. Drivers who took to the wrong side of the road accounted for the next highest number of dead—5,450. These who did not have the right-of-way added 3,900 to the toll. There were 3,810 persons who died in cars driven off the road and 3,530 victims of reckless driving.

Statistics such as these serve to help police and safety officials plan their continuing fight against death and injury on the highways and streets. To the average driver they may be unpleasant—even disturbing—reading.

If they are disturbing enough to lead some drivers to avoid the pitfalls that kill or cripple, that is reason enough to cite them.

Try and Stop Me

THE ASSOCIATED GHOSTS of Northern Scotland were having a reunion. It was a bitter cold night, and every time another ghost flung open the door, a blast of frigid air swept through the hall. "Confound those inconsiderate members!" grumbled a delicate old ghost finally. "Why must they keep opening that door? What do they think the keyhole is for?"

A Wall Street stock manipulator was delighted to meet a college classmate on a Washington-bound plane one morning. "How ya' doing?" inquired the friend jovially. "Just great!" boomed the manipulator. "Never had it so good. What's your line now?" "Didn't you hear?" asked the friend. "I'm the new Assistant Collector of Internal Revenue."

The manipulator explained hastily, "I meant I never had it so good spiritually, of course—not materially."

New Drugs Make Headlines

By Herman N. Bundesen, M.D.

Three medicines which give promise of making life a lot safer and much more comfortable are among the recent developments which I would like to discuss today in our regular monthly review of medical advances.

Midicel is a new sulfa compound which reportedly has a therapeutic advantage over the older sulfonamides. Midicel is the trade name for sulfamethoxypyridazine. It's reported that this drug is particularly effective in treating persons with urinary tract infections.

Evidence thus far indicates that it is effective also in treating respiratory infections, lung abscesses and bacteria dysentery. And it can be used as a prophylactic against recurrence of rheumatic fever.

A big advantage is that smaller doses are required than with other sulfonamides. It is available only through a doctor's prescription.

Perbenazine is a powerful new drug which may replace the usual widely-used tranquilizers. Trade name for this drug is Trilafon.

It belongs to the same family as the broadly used chlorpromazine tranquilizers, but it is reported to be from five to ten times more potent. It also requires smaller doses and produces fewer side effects. It is available by prescription only.

A medicine named Thorexin is a new product for symptomatic treatment of coughs.

It does not contain codeine, one of the most common cough suppressants. Instead, it contains dextromethorphan hydrobromide and a combination of expectorant and demulcent agents.

Unlike codeine, investigators say, dextromethorphan hydrobromide is non-narcotic. And they report it does not have the gastrointestinal side effects usually associated with opiates such as codeine.

It will be available soon for over-the-counter sale.

O'Daniel Itching Again

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP)—The recession is beginning to look like a little green man in a space suit, with the Eisenhower administration and the Democratic leaders in Congress wondering goggle-eyed which way he's going.

Both are going less than all-out to fight the recession, although each side has blamed the other for not doing more.

At the moment President Eisenhower is sitting tight, hoping things will get better before they get worse so he won't have to ask for a tax cut.

The loss of revenue from a tax reduction would throw the government deeper in the red than it's heading anyway.

And Sen. Lyndon Johnson of

Texas, the Senate's Democratic leader, while calling for greater effort by the administration, isn't rushing into a tax cut either.

For that matter, he couldn't. Tinkering with taxes must under the Constitution start in the House. And the leader of the House Democrats, Speaker Rayburn of Texas, isn't talking cuts right now any more than Eisenhower is.

Both sides are in the same dilemma: economists don't agree on which way the recession is heading. This reduces the grand field of economics to a kind of glorified guessing game.

Meanwhile, the administration gave national hopes for better days a kind of apothematic blood transfusion.

Secretary of Commerce Weeks rushed out Tuesday with figures—which ordinarily wouldn't be available for another 10 days—to show unemployment in April had dropped numerically below the March figures.

His figures showed unemployment dropped 78,000 below March. That still leaves 5,100,000 people out of jobs. And the figures raise a question.

This is the beginning of warm weather when unemployment traditionally drops a bit because more jobs open up.

So the question is: Has unemployment for this time of year dropped enough to show things are on the upturn?

The answer is no. For while unemployment dropped numerically the rate of unemployment—for this time of year—has increased from 7 to 7½ per cent. AFL-CIO President George Meany said Weeks' figures show the recession "continues to worsen."

Earlier in the week Meany saw things getting worse anyway and he doesn't think either Republicans or Democrats are doing enough against the recession just as it stands now.

He has called for improved and extended unemployment pay and tax cuts now. Not all economists agree this is the time for a cut. And the administration is still sticking to the no-cut-yet school of thought.

What plagues both parties are these problems:

A tax cut now—if somehow the recession was in its invisible ways beginning to slack off—might cause inflation by throwing more money around.

But holding off on a cut—until the recession is indisputably getting worse—might make it too late to do any good because by then the economy might be in a tailspin.

One more month ought to give an answer to which way the little green man is headed.

$500 Million For Research Spent Yearly

Chemical Industry's New Products Mean More Life Blood

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—New product are the life blood of the chemical industry. And so it is maintaining its spending on research at around $500 million dollars this year.

The 23-billion-dollar-a-year industry has been taking its lumps from the recession along with the rest. But it boasts there have been no layoffs so far in research and fewer in production than the average for all industries.

Confidence in finding new wonders and exploiting present ones is a reason that the chemical industry will spend about 2 1/2 billion dollars on new production facilities in 1958 and 1959. The Manufacturing Chemists Assn. says 1 1/2 billion dollars of this construction already is under way and 3/4 of a billion more is projected under plans considered firm.

A joint Commerce Department and Securities and Exchange Commission survey forecasts a 13 per cent drop this year in plant and equipment outlays in all industries. But in contrast to nonferrous metals expansion plans which are off 40 per cent from last year, chemical industry projects are down only 6 per cent.

Chemical construction will be heaviest in the south central and south Atlantic states but is well spread across the nation.

The trade publication, Chemical Week, says 84 per cent of the firms it polled plan to increase research spending this year and next and 72 per cent will increase the size of their research staffs.

Among projects in which they expect new strides are semiconductor metals including silicon; special metals such as niobium and tantalum; high energy fuels; new synthetic fibers and films; new plastics, pharmaceuticals, petrochemicals and synthetic rubber, including the synthetic natural rubber.

Much of the chemical industry's confidence in bigger and better things to come admittedly is based on its growth record in the last 20 years. Since 1938 production of chemicals has increased 400 percent and dollar output 600 per cent.

Weirton Cop Fires Back at Pittsburgh

The Pittsburgh Post-Gazette said in an article Monday that someone in Wheeling observes the races at the half-mile track here with a pair of binoculars and is equipped with a communications device to relay on-the-spot coverage to Weirton "bookies."

The newspaper reported that the description is relayed from some point overlooking the track to a public address system rigged up in a Weirton cigar store, which is a tobacco operation without a cigar to sell.

Weirton Police Chief David Reese was quoted in the Wheeling Intelligencer:

GOP, Dems Disagree on Action Taken To Ease Current Recession in Ohio

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Democratic and Republican aspirants for governor disagreed Tuesday night as to what action the present GOP state administration has taken to ease the recession in Ohio.

Michael V. DiSalle, one of seven candidates seeking the Democratic gubernatorial nomination in next Tuesday's primary election, told a news conference in Cleveland that the administration has done nothing to ease the impact of the recession.

He added, however, that he looked for a tremendous public relations program by the Republicans between May and November "to sell the people on what they've done."

Gov. C. William O'Neill, who is seeking re-election, told a rally at Toledo that Ohio has a 750-million-dollar public works program under construction or contract to combat unemployment.

He said no neighboring state "has anything approaching this under way."

DiSalle said in answer to a question that he did not think a change in administrations would get rid of the recession in Ohio "because the recession is nationwide." But he expressed the opinion that a change would help cushion the blow for many of the people affected.

The former Toledo mayor, defeated by O'Neill in the 1956 election, said he felt certain of the nomination again this year. But he added that whoever is nominated by the Democrats will win in November because of general dissatisfaction with the present administration.

He said O'Neill went into office "with a great buildup and hasn't been able to live up to it."

O'Neill told the Toledo rally that he is fulfilling campaign promises made before he became governor 16 months ago. He added:

"I say the pledge has been kept to build highways and hospitals and university and college buildings, increase the personnel to treat the mentally ill and to operate the state without new taxes."

Columbus Mayor Maynard E. Sensenbrenner, another Democratic gubernatorial candidate, criticized O'Neill for not calling in industrial, labor and other leaders a long time ago in an effort to work out the unemployment problem. He spoke at a $10-a-plate dinner in the state capital.

Stephen M. Young, the Democratic candidate for U. S. senator who is unopposed in the primary, also spoke at the Columbus rally. He said the high cost of living was the nation's No. 1 enemy and that it must be attacked on all fronts and controlled.

In Logan, Robert N. Gorman, Cincinnati attorney who also seeks the Democratic nomination for governor, said the State Finance Department has produced what he called "scandalous waste."

Assailing the O'Neill administration,

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Joseph Heifetz, daughter of violinist Jascha Heifetz, and Robert Byrne, editor of a local engineering magazine, obtained a marriage license Tuesday. Each is 27.

The grand jury is reported investigating the income tax returns of the Negro congressman.

One of Powell's aides was convicted of income tax evasion in 1956. The trial produced sworn testimony about kickbacks.

The House action in opening its records was taken in response to a federal court subpoena served on House clerk Ralph Roberts directing him to make the files available to the federal court.

tion's claim of no new taxes, DiSalle told newspaper, radio and television representatives at a dinner in Cleveland that the mental health and highway programs now carried on by the state are being paid for by taxes levied under previous administrations and by spending from the state surplus.

"You have the equivalent of a substantial new tax," he said in deploring the depletion of the surplus.

The Toledo rally was the fourth in a series on behalf of O'Neill's reelection campaign. The fifth and final one will be held tonight in Dayton.

Two other Democratic gubernatorial aspirants—Mayor Anthony J. Celebrezze of Cleveland and Albert S. Porter, Cuyahoga County engineer — also spoke Tuesday night.

Appearing on a television program at Toledo, Celebrezze criticized the O'Neill administration for its handling of the mental health problem. It is necessary, he said, to have competent staffs as well as adequate buildings to house the mentally ill.

He added that because of what he called shoddy financial housekeeping in Columbus, the present biennium will end with a 30-million-dollar deficit.

In a television appearance at Cleveland, Porter advocated a statewide mortgage insurance program patterned after the Federal Home Owners Loan Corp.

"Nothing is more deplorable," he said, "than the taking away of one's home and property, especially after years of hard work and savings have gone into it."

Gorman said today he expects to carry 10 of Ohio's 23 congressional elections in the primary.

Gorman, former Ohio supreme court judge, said in a speech prepared for delivery at Lebanon:

"I have surveyed the situation in Ohio and I am very confident that I will win the Democratic gubernatorial nomination next Tuesday. Our latest and most reliable information shows that I will carry these congressional districts:

"The 1st and 2nd (Hamilton County), the 3rd (Butler and Montgomery counties), the 4th (Darke County and the areas in and around Celina and Auglaize County) the 6th (Clermont County and the area extending to Portsmouth), the 7th (Springfield, Lima and Lebanon), the 14th (Akron), the 15th (Muskingum), the 16th (Canton) and the 18th (Steubenville)."

He said, "It is going to take some doing to pull Ohio out of this recession. That job won't be accomplished under Gov. C. William O'Neill's policy of fancy political footwork that has landed him flat on his face so many times in the past year. The taxpayers deserve a much better performance than the governor had been able to give them."

$500 Million For Research Spent Yearly

Chemical Industry's New Products Mean More Life Blood

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—New product are the life blood of the chemical industry. And so it is maintaining its spending on research at around $500 million dollars this year.

The 23-billion-dollar-a-year industry has been taking its lumps from the recession along with the rest. But it boasts there have been no layoffs so far in research and fewer in production than the average for all industry.

Confidence in finding new wonders and exploiting present ones is a reason that the chemical industry will spend about 2 1/2 billion dollars on new production facilities in 1958 and 1959. The Manufacturing Chemists Assn. says 1 1/2 billion dollars of this construction already is under way and 3/4 of a billion more is projected under plans considered firm.

A joint Commerce Department and Securities and Exchange Commission survey forecasts a 13 per cent drop this year in plant and equipment outlays in all industries. But in contrast to nonferrous metals expansion plans which are off 40 per cent from last year, chemical industry projects are down only 6 per cent.

Chemical construction will be heaviest in the south central and south Atlantic states but is well spread across the nation.

The trade publication, Chemical Week, says 84 per cent of the firms it polled plan to increase research spending this year and next and 72 per cent will increase the size of their research staffs.

Among projects in which they expect new strides are semiconductor metals including silicon; special metals such as niobium and tantalum; high energy fuels; new synthetic fibers and films; new plastics, pharmaceuticals, petrochemicals and synthetic rubber, including the synthetic natural rubber.

Much of the chemical industry's confidence in bigger and better things to come admittedly is based on its growth record in the last 20 years. Since 1938 production of chemicals has increased 400 per cent and dollar output 600 per cent.

Weirton Cop Fires Back at Pittsburgh

WHEELING, W. Va. (AP)—A Pittsburgh newspaper has charged undercover capers involving stride-by-stride accounts of Wheeling Downs horse races can be traced to Weirton bookmakers, and Weirton's police chief has fired back indignantly.

The Pittsburgh Post-Gazette said in an article Monday that someone in Wheeling observes the races at the half-mile track here with a pair of binoculars and is equipped with a communications device to relay on-the-spot coverage to Weirton "bookies."

The newspaper reported that the description is relayed from some point overlooking the track to a public address system rigged up in a Weirton cigar store, which is a tobacco operation without a cigar to sell.

Weirton Police Chief David Reese was quoted in the Wheeling Intelligencer:

"I have failed to see why Pittsburgh and Steubenville (Ohio) police don't wash their own dirty

GOP, Dems Disagree on Action Taken To Ease Current Recession in Ohio

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Democratic and Republican aspirants for governor disagreed Tuesday night as to what action the present GOP state administration has taken to ease the recession in Ohio.

Michael V. DiSalle, one of seven candidates seeking the Democratic gubernatorial nomination in next Tuesday's primary election, told a news conference in Cleveland that the administration has done nothing to ease the impact of the recession.

He added, however, that he looked for a tremendous public relations program by the Republicans between May and November "to sell the people on what they've done."

Gov. C. William O'Neill, who is seeking re-election, told a rally at Toledo that Ohio has a 750-million-dollar public works program under construction or contract to combat unemployment.

He said no neighboring state "has anything approaching this under way."

DiSalle said in answer to a question that he did not think a change in administrations would get rid of the recession in Ohio "because the recession is nationwide." But he expressed the opinion that a change would help cushion the blow for many of the people affected.

The former Toledo mayor, defeated by O'Neill in the 1956 election, said he felt certain of the nomination again this year. But he added that whoever is nominated by the Democrats will win in November because of general dissatisfaction with the present administration.

He said O'Neill went into office "with a great buildup and hasn't been able to live up to it."

O'Neill told the Toledo rally that he is fulfilling campaign promises made before he became governor 16 months ago. He added:

"I say the pledge has been kept to build highways and hospitals and university and college buildings, increase the personnel to treat the mentally ill and to operate the state without new taxes."

Columbus Mayor Maynard E. Sensenbrenner, another Democratic gubernatorial candidate, criticized O'Neill for not calling in industrial, labor and other leaders a long time ago in an effort to work out the unemployment problem. He spoke at a $10-a-plate dinner in the state capital.

Stephen M. Young, the Democratic candidate for U. S. senator who is unopposed in the primary, also spoke at the Columbus rally. He said the high cost of living was the nation's No. 1 enemy and that it must be attacked on all fronts and controlled.

In Logan, Robert N. Gorman, Cincinnati attorney who also seeks the Democratic nomination for governor, said the State Finance Department has produced what he called "scandalous waste."

Assailing the O'Neill administration, he said:

"If a true picture were made of Weirton you'd find women here are not afraid to walk the streets at night, nor do we have muggings and gang wars like in Pittsburgh and elsewhere. All violations in Weirton will be checked and violators found will be prosecuted."

tion's claim of no new taxes, DiSalle told newspaper, radio and television representatives at a dinner in Cleveland that the mental health and highway programs now carried on by the state are being paid for by taxes levied under previous administrations and by spending from the state surplus.

"You have the equivalent of a substantial new tax," he said in deploring the depletion of the surplus.

The Toledo rally was the fourth in a series on behalf of O'Neill's reelection campaign. The fifth and final one will be held tonight in Dayton.

Two other Democratic gubernatorial aspirants—Mayor Anthony J. Celebrezze of Cleveland and Albert S. Porter, Cuyahoga County engineer — also spoke Tuesday night.

Appearing on a television program at Toledo, Celebrezze criticized the O'Neill administration for its handling of the mental health problem. It is necessary, he said, to have competent staffs as well as adequate buildings to house the mentally ill.

He added that because of what he called shoddy financial housekeeping in Columbus, the present biennium will end with a 30-million-dollar deficit.

In a television appearance at Cleveland, Porter advocated a statewide mortgage insurance program patterned after the Federal Home Owners Loan Corp.

"Nothing is more deplorable," he said, "than the taking away of one's home and property, especially after years of hard work and savings have gone into it."

Gorman said today he expects to carry 10 of Ohio's 23 congressional elections in the primary.

Hollywood Finally Admits Native Actress Now Is Star

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—At long last, Hollywood has claimed its own girl, Gwen Verdon.

The film industry is a little slow on the uptake sometimes, and the case of Gwen Verdon is a prime example. The gal was born almost in the shadow of MGM studios, where her father worked as an electrician.

She played in Los Angeles theaters as a tap dancer, appeared in water shows, modeled bathing suits and strutted at the old Florentine Gardens night spot. Still, Hollywood couldn't see her.

She danced in and around the sumptuous movie musicals of the 40s and early 50s. "My last assignment here was a Jack Cole's assistant on 'Gentlemen Prefer Blondes,'" she said, referring to the Marilyn Monroe-Jane Russell epic of 1953. "I was supposed to do a can-can number in it. But then I got a chance to go into 'Can-Can' in New York, and I took it."

Abandoning films, she went east for the Cole Porter show about night life in Paris of the 90s. The story goes that she was so good in her numbers that they had to be cut down so as not to overshadow the star, Lilo. But Gwen's talent would not be hidden, and the first-night audience stopped the show by cheering for her.

She helped lift an otherwise pedestrian musical into the hit class. Then she achieved stardom in "Damn Yankees." She followed with "New Girl in Town," also a Broadway hit. Again, her performance was greatly responsible, since critics found fault with converting Eugene O'Neill's "Anna Christie" into a musical.

Now she has been returned to her home town to re-create her role in "Damn Yankees" opposite Tab Hunter. And she came on her own terms.

Life of Benjamin Franklin Presented by Mrs. Adkins

The life and works of one of our greatest Americans, Benjamin Franklin, were presented to the members of the Monday Club by Mrs. Robert Adkins in a paper entitled "Godfather to an Infant Nation." The club met in the trustees' room of the Memorial Hall Monday evening, Mrs. Barton Deming presided over the meeting.

Mrs. Adkins stated that if George Washington is the father of his country, Benjamin Franklin might well be called its godfather. A kindly witty sensible sort of fairy godfather whose wisdom helped to shape not only the Declaration of Independence, but also the Constitution of the United States.

As a boy, Benjamin was often a handful. He didn't like his lessons, he grumbled at Latin and failed Arithmetic. Later he realized a need for these things so he taught himself arithmetic, Latin, French, Spanish, Italian and a love for reading. At the same time he was fond of swimming and other sports.

By the time he was 12, he was so restlessly full of energy that his father decided to apprentice him to his half brother, James, a printer. This move helped him to become a man full of good ideas in later life. He quarreled with James and at 17 he went to England and back, earning his living as a printer or storekeeper. By the time he was 20, he was bold and steady. Before he was 30 he had a printing business, a newspaper and he had written a best seller, "Poor Richard's Almanac." This work made Franklin's name a household word throughout the colonies and gave a homespun flavor to American humor.

Two years later, he founded the first circulating library in North America. This project became the mother of all subscription libraries.

Mrs. G. M. Newton, E. Main St., will be hostess to the group when they meet in May.

Mrs. Harry Stivers presented a program of contests with Mrs. Cook and Mrs. Livingston as the prize winners.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by the hostesses.

Sew Up a Dainty Heirloom For First Born's Christening

NEW YORK (AP)—No matter how practical the rest of your baby's wardrobe may be, he deserves the laciest, daintiest christening dress you can produce. Sometimes a family heirloom is available for this occasion, but if not, you can sew your own heirloom, starting a new tradition.

Thanks to modern fabrics, the most delicate baby dress now can be dunked, drip-dried and put away for the next christening. Here are some tips from experts at your local sewing center as to how to use new fabrics and techniques.

Select a standard pattern for a christening dress, which probably will include directions for slip, bonnet and booties. Use sheer white nylon for the dress, and select dainty but inexpensive nylon lace for the trimming. You can buy lace beading complete with color-fast nylon ribbon at most variety stores.

When stitching on nylon sheer, be sure to use nylon thread, a size 11 needle, lighter-than-normal tension and pressure on your machine and tiny stitches, 15 or 20 to the inch. Test stitch on a scrap of fabric, and if it has a tendency to pucker, back it with a strip of tissue paper which can be torn off later.

Use French seams or the construction, or finish plain seams with zigzag stitching. Baste lace in place, adjust tensions to eliminate puckering and then stitch along edges of lace with zigzag stitch. Using a small, sharp pair of shears, trim away fabric beneath lace insertion, close to line of stitching. On the bottom row of lace insertion, the hem may be stitched right along with the lace. The slip may be made of cotton batiste, which requires mercerized cotton thread and a size 14 needle. The little bonnet also is lined in batiste, with lace insertion applied separately on the covering nylon sheer.

White felt covered with the nylon sheer fabric may be used for charming little booties, with a lace cuff around the top and a lace rosette on the toe.

When you overmix a cake you squeeze out air bubbles and make it hard for the batter to rise.

Life of Benjamin Franklin Presented by Mrs. Adkins

The life and works of one of our greatest Americans, Benjamin Franklin, were presented to the members of the Monday Club by Mrs. Robert Adkins in a paper entitled "Godfather to an Infant Nation." The club met in the trustees' room of the Memorial Hall Monday evening. Mrs. Barton Deming presided over the meeting.

Mrs. Adkins stated that if George Washington is the father of his country, Benjamin Franklin might well be called its godfather. A kindly witty sensible sort of fairy godfather whose wisdom helped to shape not only the Declaration of Independence, but also the Constitution of the United States.

As a boy, Benjamin was often a handful. He didn't like his lessons, he grumbled at Latin and failed Arithmetic. Later he realized a need for these things so he taught himself arithmetic, Latin, French, Spanish, Italian and a love for reading. At the same time he was fond of swimming and other sports.

By the time he was 12, he was so restlessly full of energy that his father decided to apprentice him to his half brother, James, a printer. This move helped him to become a man full of good ideas in later life. He quarreled with James and at 17 he went to England and back, earning his living as a printer or storekeeper. By the time he was 20, he was bold and steady. Before he was 30 he had a printing business, a newspaper and he had written a best seller, "Poor Richard's Almanac." This work made Franklin's name a household word throughout the colonies and gave a homespun flavor to American humor.

Two years later, he founded the first circulating library in North America. This project became the mother of all subscription libraries.

Mrs. Wade Cook Hostess for Past Chiefs

The Past Chiefs Club of Pythian Sisters met in the home of Mrs. Wade Cook, Mt. Sterling, last week. Mrs. Laura Mantle served as co-hostess.

Mrs. Allen Strawser, president, presided over the business meeting. The meeting opened with the salute to the flag and the Lord's prayer. There were 12 members present. Mrs. Roy Livingston was a guest.

Mrs. G. M. Newton, E. Main St., will be hostess to the group when they meet in May.

Mrs. Harry Stivers presented a program of contests with Mrs. Cook and Mrs. Livingston as the prize winners.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by the hostesses.

ies which soon grew up in the Colonies.

The study of science was not forgotten by Franklin, and he made discoveries by his own observation. Among them was, North East storms on the Atlantic coast move against the wind.

The study of inventions were not forgotten by this wizard of ideas. He proved that lightning is really electricity. He invented the lightning rod, and he made so many scientific discoveries about electricity that he became famous all over the Colonies and Europe. He was called the learned Dr. Franklin.

As the first postmaster general for the Colonies, he found the mail slow and unsure. He got the postal service working so well that letters traveled every day and by night too.

Franklin helped to fight the Indians, organized the first militia in British North America, and he saw that General Braddock got needed supplies for fighting.

The part that he played in the repeal of the Stamp Act gave him fame as a politician and diplomat.

The drawing up of the Declaration of Independence by Thomas Jefferson was wisely guided by the exact and cautious hand of Ben Franklin.

His religious philosophy was the belief in one God who make all things and governs the world. He will reward virtues and punish vice, either here or hereafter. And that the most acceptable service of God is doing good to men.

Philanthropy was not forgotten by this great man. There are funds in Boston and Philadelphia left by Franklin that for nearly two centuries have been helping scholars and science.

Franklin's last public act was to address a petition to Congress for the abolition of slavery.

During his later years, he needed better spectacles so he invented bi-focal glasses and he couldn't get the books on the top shelves of his library so he invented the book on the pole which may be seen by our grocer today.

Many other accomplishments were realized by this genius of ideas Ben Franklin whose many sided worthwhile activities of his day may creep through the theme of the year for the Monday Club "The Great Eventful Present Hides The Past."

Attention as called to the meeting of the Ohio Federation of Women's Club which meets at the Deshler Hilton, Columbus, Tuesday thru Thursday of this week. The president of the Federation Mrs. Ray Davis, will preside at a number of the meetings.

The Monday Club Delegates, Mrs. Bishop Given and Mrs. Ione Reichelderfer will attend. Also, Mrs. Barton Deming and Mrs. Harold Anderson will attend Wednesday.

The last meeting of the club year will be held May 5th instead of May 12th.

Sew Up a Dainty Heirloom For First Born's Christening

NEW YORK (AP)—No matter how practical the rest of your baby's wardrobe may be, he deserves the loveliest, daintiest christening dress you can produce. Sometimes a family heirloom is available for this occasion, but if not, you can sew your own heirloom, starting a new tradition.

Thanks to modern fabrics, the most delicate baby dress now can be dunked, drip-dried and put away for the next christening. Here are some tips from experts at your local sewing center as to how to use new fabrics and techniques.

Select a standard pattern for a christening dress, which probably will include directions for slip, bonnet and booties. Use sheer white nylon for the dress, and select dainty but inexpensive nylon lace for the trimming. You can buy lace beading complete with color-fast nylon ribbon at most variety stores.

When stitching on nylon sheer, be sure to use nylon thread, a size 11 needle, lighter-than-normal tension and pressure on your machine and tiny stitches, 15 or 20 to the inch. Test stitch on a scrap of fabric, and if it has a tendency to pucker, back it with a strip of tissue paper which can be torn off later.

Use French seams or the construction, or finish plain seams with zigzag stitching. Baste lace in place, adjust tensions to eliminate puckering and then stitch along edges of lace with zigzag stitch. Using a small, sharp pair of shears, trim away fabric beneath lace insertion, close to line of stitching. On the bottom row of lace insertion, the hem may be stitched right along with the lace. The slip may be made of cotton batiste, which requires mercerized cotton thread and a size 14 needle. The little bonnet also is lined in batiste, with lace insertion applied separately on the covering nylon sheer.

White felt covered with the nylon sheer fabric may be used for charming little booties, with a lace cuff around the top and a lace rosette on the toe.

When you overmix a cake you squeeze out air bubbles and make it hard for the batter to rise.

Ohio Democrats To Try Paying Off Their Debt

Plan Readied To Raise $30,000 after Primary Election Next Week

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Democrats are about to put their financial house in order.

State Chairman William L. Coleman unveiled plans to form an Ohio Democratic Finance Committee soon after the May 6 primary election to pool party financial activities throughout the state.

He expects the centralized effort, similar to successful Republican fund handling, to get Ohio Democrats out of the red, finance a strong state headquarters and provide major help for national, state and local campaigns.

The party, some $30,000 in debt, recently moved state headquarters from the Deshler-Hilton hotel to more modest offices on Columbus' East State Street to save about $5,000 a year in rent.

Coleman expects difficulty in raising adequate funds for the fall election drive but hopes that a centrally directed effort will be more lucrative than separate campaigns by candidates and local committees.

"To the best of our knowledge," Coleman said in a letter to Democrats, "there has never been a successful Democratic fund campaign that blanketed the state of Ohio and thoroughly covered every home, business and industry."

"Contributions have usually come from candidates and those with a direct interest in the election results... seldom from individuals who contribute solely because they believe in the preservation of our way of life as it pertains to free elections and the two-party system."

Coleman said the finance committee, with the blessings of the state executive committee, will be formed soon after election of state central committee members in the primary. Central committee members, two from each of the 23 congressional districts, customarily form a larger executive committee under party procedure.

Under present plans, the executive committee treasurer will head the new finance committee to be each congressional district. The finance committee chairman will appoint heads of various divisions such as professional, volunteers, business and employees for fund solicitation, Coleman explained.

Such an organization would parallel the Ohio Republican Finance Committee setup. Republicans, under chairman Ray C. Bliss, concentrate fund raising in the state finance committee. Contributions are pooled and passed out to candidates, county committees, national and state headquarters.

The GOP committee reported contributions of nearly two million dollars between May 9 and Dec. 6, 1956. A breakdown showed distributions of $150,000 to the national GOP committee, $827,000 to county committees, $715,000 to the state committee $111,500 to congressional candidates and lesser sums to other groups.

Republicans said that some county committees, at first reluctant to join the fund-raising pool, discovered that they were better off financially through participation in the statewide effort.

Coleman said he didn't expect all Democratic county committees to join the party's statewide drive immediately but expressed belief that they eventually would unite to bolster a central agency.

Democratic candidates now raise their own funds for general election campaigns with state headquarters helping supply literature. Reports of expenditures were filed locally by candidates or their committees, except candidates for state offices, so that no statewide total was available for comparison with centralized GOP efforts.

Formation of a state democratic finance committee would require a report of fund handling to the secretary of state and provide

Ramos had been a prosecution witness in the recent trial of seven young gang members in the fatal beating of a police officer, but this slaying had nothing to do with that, police said. This was just over rivalry and "a bad look."

Hand-Picked Crew Probing Gambling

COLUMBUS (AP) — A group of hand-picked men, their identity known only to a few high state officials, are helping to crack down on organized gambling in Ohio.

Raymond J. Ripberger, enforcement chief of the state Liquor Department, said the squad was formed primarily to gather evidence against big scale gambling. Ripberger said the men are not members of the Liquor Department's Enforcement Division, and are not carried on any state payroll. They are paid from a special fund to guard their anonymity.

Ike's Economic Aide Optimistic

BONN, Germany (AP)—President Eisenhower's administrative assistant for economic affairs says that the U.S. economy should be on the upgrade by "some time in the autumn."

Gabriel Hauge, visiting West Germany, told a Bonn news conference the U.S. recession (he called it "a minor fluctuation in economic conditions") has passed its most severe phase and is leveling off.

But, he added, "the evidence would seem to suggest that we still have a little farther to go."

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower, commemorating the nation's first Law Day observance, said today the world must choose law over force if civilization is to survive.

Ex-Cop's Hearing Rules as Mistrial

EAST LIVERPOOL (AP) — The trial of a former East Liverpool special policeman charged with burglary was declared a mistrial Tuesday because a defense attorney spoke to a juror.

Judge Raymond Buzzard, Columbiana County common pleas judge, set May 1 for a new trial for Dallas Bishop, accused of the Smith and Phillips Co. department store burglary in 1952.

Reporter Will Interview But Never Wed an Actress

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—"Why do you interview actresses?" somebody asked the other day.

A. Because many people supposedly want to read about them.

Q. As a generalization, what are actresses interested in most?

A. Themselves.

Q. What are the principal types of questions you ask?

A. It doesn't matter. They always return to the subject that interests them most.

Q. What do actresses want most from life?

A. They want to be famous and rich and loved.

Q. Doesn't everybody?

A. Just about everybody. That's why actresses are very human people.

Q. What is the chief characteristic they share?

A. Extreme sensitivity to the opinions of others—except when it comes to being on time for an appointment.

Q. Are all actresses punctual?

A. Of course not. But a majority are for two reasons, as I figure it: (1) they take more time than most women to dress and make up, and (2) they like to make an entrance.

Q. Sir, do you like actresses?

A. Sir, I love 'em.

Q. Why?
A. They're usually attractive and generally intelligent.
Q. If you were single, would you marry an actress?
A. Never.
Q. Why not?
A. Any actress I might want marry would be so sensitive and intelligent that she'd know my ego was too big to fit into the household with her ego.

Are Sorghums OK For Grain Crops?

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Agriculture Agent

Considerable interest has been given to grain sorghum with past restricted acreage and the relatively high yields of grain sorghums.

Sorghum grain is considered to have 90 to 95 per cent the feeding value of corn. Chemical analysis has indicated that grain sorghum is slightly higher in protein and lower in fat content than corn. Sorghum, properly supplemented, is good feed for all classes of livestock. The grain should be ground or cracked for cattle or hogs.

We have in the county extension office some sorghum seed that may be used by farmers on an experimental basis.

There are several reasons why it is unwise to experiment with a large acreage. The sorghum is carried in exposed heads and last year in Pickaway County serious damage was done by birds.

THIS type grain head is such that it retains moisture very well. Due to the usual damp conditions that are prevalent at harvest time, considerable spoilage in the field is probable. The heads dry slowly and delayed combining is also very probable.

In order to safely store sorghum the moisture must be down to 12 per cent. This will necessitate artificial drying.

The cultural requirements such as land preparation and fertilizer requirements are very similar to corn. Sorghums will do well on good corn soil and will do better on sandy, droughty soils. Five to eight pounds of seed per acre should be sufficient for a satisfactory stand.

The sorghum should be planted in early June, after the soil temperature reaches 70 degrees or warmer. The seedlings grow very slowly. This slow growth usually brings on a weed problem.

The most recent varieties of grain sorghum grow about four to five feet in height. In harvesting the combine is set to clip off the tops.

Grain sorghums are affected by a large number of plant diseases such as loose smut, kernal smut, charcoal rot, seedling blight and others.

EARLY maturing varieties would be specifically recommended for Pickaway County. Late maturing varieties will add problems at harvest time.

Lodging is a very serious drawback but plant breeders are working hard and are making progress with lodging resistant varieties.

Grain sorghum alone is not recommended for silage. Sorghum used for silage should be of the forage sorghum varieties. In either case cattle do not like sorghum alone as silage. It is better to include sorghum with something else such as soybeans or corn.

Last year in southeast Ohio sorghum yields ran as high as 130 bushels per acre.

Unsprayed Fruit Trees Are Haven for Insects, Disease

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Agricultural Agent

Insect and disease control can become a headache for backyard fruit growers.

With the many different spraying programs and equipment necessary it may be cheaper to buy your fruit than to follow a complete insect and disease control program. If these many spraying formulations are not properly handled there may be a casualty in your household.

The home gardener should not plant or grow more fruit trees and plants than he can care for. Unsprayed and uncared for fruit trees make good breeding places for disease and insect pests and should be eliminated. Pick up and dispose of dropped and rotted fruits at regular intervals and destroy all diseased plant refuse.

Rather than worry about the many spray formulations for control of fruit pests, there is a recommended general purpose formula that you may use.

THIS general formula spray may be mixed by using four oz. of Methoxychlor 50 per cent WP, five oz. Malathion 25 per cent WP, plus three oz. of either ferbam or capton in 10 gallons of water. You can purchase the above general formula spray already mixed.

Be cautious in purchasing and make sure the formula includes the above ingredients. Follow the directions on the label.

If you plan to prepare your own formulation and if ferbam is selected, all ingredients should be kept separate and mixed together in water at time of spraying. However, if capton is selected as the fungicide, all materials may be mixed together in the proper proportions and stored dry until ready for use.

The general formula is well adapted for spraying peaches, sweet and sour cherries, plums, grapes, red and black raspberries, black berries and pears. Apples and quinces may also be sprayed but they require more applications.

In general, the first spray should be applied as soon as the petals have fallen from cherries, peaches, plums and pears and repeated 10 days later. Do not spray when the trees, vines or plants are in blossom.

Additional help can be secured by contacting the Agriculture Extension office in the basement of the Postoffice in Circleville.

Frozen Foods Grow Popular In American Market Trend

By MRS. LEORA SAYRE
County Home Economics Agent

Now is the time when freezing and cleaning are popular action words.

Changing seasons seem to demand that some special cleaning be done in every home. This project could be called a "tune-up" or "getting rid of the clutter of a years living."

The home economics barometer states that the value of family life should be stressed as an important reason for eliminating the confusion of turning the house, from basement to attic, into a topsy-turvy condition, and adopting the gradual cleaning process.

With the number of improved cleaning products and appliances available, the modern homemaker can organize her schedule of work and recreation so as to keep ahead of the dirt and eliminate that one special big cleaning session.

Although probably still in their infancy, frozen foods have grown in 25 years to fill a 14 billion dollar market basket. It has been estimated by The Food Materials Corporation that one out of every three dollars spent today on frozen food goes for a cooked or semi-cooked product. This corporation found that 400 different firms had recently packaged 400 million pot pies, 50 million prepared dinners, 60 to 70 million fruit pies, 320 million pounds of frozen potato products and 70 million pounds of fish sticks.

EVEN though there is still a large percentage of people whose use of frozen foods amount to little more than an occasional can of concentrated orange juice, figures show that the average American eats at least 45 pounds of frozen food in a year.

Taste and quality seem to outrank convenience as a buying factor in frozen foods.

Any person in the chain of frozen food handling, including the consumer, can damage the product. No matter where the abuse occurs, it is there and will show up at serving time.

How often do consumers purchase frozen foods early in the shopping trip and allow them to stand long periods in a car parked in the summer sun, or heated against a winter cold—or, on the kitchen counter at room temperature?

U. S. Department of Agriculture research shows that a product stored at zero degrees for a whole year will have better quality than will a frozen food which has been allowed to get up to a temperature of 25 to 30 degrees for just a day. Frozen foods have a memory for all the treatment they receive!

To make a freezer for food economical, the stored food should be used, not saved. To get a constant turnover of food, the freezer is used for preserving seasonal foods such as fruits and vegetables when supply is abundant and quality high. When these seasonal foods and meats and poultry are removed, the vacancy is "relieved" with cooked, baked, and ready to eat foods.

THE more food put in a freezer per year, the less the cost per pound. For instance, if a freezer of 10 cubic feet is filled with only 360 pounds of food in a year, the storage cost for the food will be approximately 25 cents per pound. If the freezer is filled with 540 pounds of food in a year, the storage cost will be around 17 cents per pound.

Foods can safely be frozen once uncooked and once cooked. Never re-freeze. If prepared foods partially thaw, a rapid build-up of mold, yeast and bacteria is likely to occur.

Bulletin No. 369, published in January, 1958, by Ohio Agriculture Extension Service, Ohio State University, "Freezing and Using Vegetables, Fruits, and Prepared Foods" is available at the county extension office. This gives points for success in freezing and the types of foods to grow or buy for best results in freezing processes.

The locally grown food items are now available in the "garden row" of the food stores for immediate eating or preserving otherwise—asparagus and rhubarb.

The Ohio grown crop of asparagus will be in peak supply during May and June. Martha Washington is the variety recommended for freezing. When asparagus is green, it contains vitamin A, as well as C, also riboflavin, niacin and iron. The contributions made to the diet by a serving of green asparagus are similar to those made by green beans or green peas. Asparagus is fine for weight watchers — six average size spears, only 22 calories.

Rhubarb is a welcome Spring tonic or refresher from winter-time menus. It can produce the pink of perfection in a lot of desert preparations. Good color is the sign of good flavor. This "vegetable - fruit" contains some Vitamin A and C and small amounts of minerals.

The best of wishes to all homemakers for best and quickest methods in whatever method of cleaning and freezing they pursue.

City Highway Aid Is Sought by Ohio

TOLEDO (AP)—Ohio is trying to get Congress to pass legislation enabling cities in the expressway system to get federal fund advances.

State Highway Chief Charles M. Noble says.

He says this will allow the cities to complete the high priority parts of the expressway system.

Addressing a luncheon of the Toledo Area Chamber of Commerce Tuesday, Noble urged public pressure to make sure the federal government begins allocating funds on a need basis in 1960 for the federal interstate highway system.

He said Congress decided in a compromise measure on the "need" allocation in 1960 as opposed to the present system of area highway mileage.

Now is the time when freezing and cleaning are popular action words.

Changing seasons seem to demand that some special cleaning be done in every home. This project could be called a "tune-up" or "getting rid of the clutter of a year's living."

The home economics barometer states that the value of family life should be stressed as an important reason for eliminating the confusion of turning the house, from basement to attic, into a topsy-turvy condition, and adopting the gradual cleaning process.

With the number of improved cleaning products and appliances available, the modern homemaker can organize her schedule of work and recreation so as to keep ahead of the dirt and eliminate that one special big cleaning session.

Although probably still in their infancy, frozen foods have grown in 25 years to fill a 1 1/2 billion dollar market basket. It has been estimated by The Food Materials Corporation that one out of every three dollars spent today on frozen food goes for a cooked or semi-cooked product. This corporation found that 400 different firms had recently packaged 400 million pot pies, 50 million prepared dinners, 60 to 70 million fruit pies, 320 million pounds of frozen potato products and 70 million pounds of fish sticks.

EVEN though there is still a large percentage of people whose use of frozen foods amount to little more than an occasional can of concentrated orange juice, figures show that the average American eats at least 45 pounds of frozen food in a year.

Taste and quality seem to outrank convenience as a buying factor in frozen foods.

Any person in the chain of frozen food handling, including the consumer, can damage the product. No matter where the abuse occurs, it is there and will show up at serving time.

How often do consumers purchase frozen foods early in the shopping trip and allow them to stand long periods in a car parked in the summer sun, or heated against a winter cold—or, on the kitchen counter at room temperature?

U. S. Department of Agriculture research shows that a product stored at zero degrees for a whole year will have better quality than will a frozen food which has been allowed to get up to a temperature of 25 to 30 degrees for just a day. Frozen foods have a memory for all the treatment they receive!

To make a freezer for food economical, the stored food should be used, not saved. To get a constant turnover of food, the freezer is used for preserving seasonal foods such as fruits and vegetables when supply is abundant and quality high. When these seasonal foods and meats and poultry are removed, the vacancy is "relieved" with cooked, baked, and ready to eat foods.

THE more food put in a freezer per year, the less the cost per pound. For instance, if a freezer of 10 cubic feet is filled with only 360 pounds of food in a year, the storage cost for the food will be approximately 25 cents per pound. If the freezer is filled with 540 pounds of food in a year, the storage cost will be around 17 cents per pound.

Foods can safely be frozen once uncooked and once cooked. Never re-freeze. If prepared foods partially thaw, a rapid build-up of mold, yeast and bacteria is likely to occur.

Bulletin No. 369, published in January, 1958, by Ohio Agriculture Extension Service, Ohio State University, "Freezing and Using Vegetables, Fruits, and Prepared Foods" is available at the county extension office. This gives points for success in freezing and the types of foods to grow or buy for best results in freezing processes.

The locally grown food items are now available in the "garden row" of the food stores for immediate eating or preserving otherwise—asparagus and rhubarb.

The Ohio grown crop of asparagus will be in peak supply during May and June. Martha Washington is the variety recommended for freezing. When asparagus is green, it contains vitamin A, as well as C, also riboflavin, niacin and iron. The contributions made to the diet by a serving of green asparagus are similar to those made by green beans or green peas. Asparagus is fine for weight watchers — six average size spears, only 22 calories.

Rhubarb is a welcome Spring tonic or refresher from winter time menus. It can produce the pink of perfection in a lot of dessert preparations. Good color is the sign of good flavor. This "vegetable - fruit" contains some Vitamin A and C and small amounts of minerals.

The best of wishes to all homemakers for best and quickest methods in whatever method of cleaning and freezing they pursue.

Unsprayed Fruit Trees Are Haven for Insects, Disease

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Agricultural Agent

Insect and disease control can become a headache for backyard fruit growers.

With the many different spraying programs and equipment necessary it may be cheaper to buy your fruit than to follow a complete insect and disease control program. If these many spraying formulations are not properly handled there may be a casualty in your household.

The home gardener should not plant or grow more fruit trees and plants than he can care for. Unsprayed and uncared for fruit trees make good breeding places for disease and insect pests and should be eliminated. Pick up and dispose of dropped and rotted fruits at regular intervals and destroy all diseased plant refuse.

Rather than worry about the many spray formulations for control of fruit pests, there is a recommended general purpose formula that you may use.

THIS general formula spray may be mixed by using four oz. of Methoxychlor 50 per cent WP, five oz. Malathion 25 per cent WP, plus three oz. of either ferbam or captan in 10 gallons of water. You can purchase the above general formula spray already mixed.

Be cautious in purchasing and make sure the formula includes the above ingredients. Follow the directions on the label.

If you plan to prepare your own formulation and if ferbam is selected, all ingredients should be kept separate and mixed together in water at time of spraying. However, if captan is selected as the fungicide, all materials may be mixed together in the proper proportions and stored dry until ready for use.

The general formula is well adapted for spraying peaches, sweet and sour cherries, plums, grapes, red and black raspberries, black berries and pears. Apples and quinces may also be sprayed but they require more applications.

In general, the first spray should be applied as soon as the petals have fallen from cherries, peaches, plums and pears and repeated 10 days later. Do not spray when the trees, vines or plants are in blossom.

Additional help can be secured by contacting the Agriculture Extension office in the basement of the Postoffice in Circleville.

City Highway Aid Is Sought by Ohio

TOLEDO (AP)—Ohio is trying to get Congress to pass legislation enabling cities in the expressway system to get federal fund advances, State Highway Chief Charles M. Noble says.

He says this will allow the cities to complete the high priority parts of the expressway system.

Addressing a luncheon of the Toledo Area Chamber of Commerce Tuesday, Noble urged public pressure to make sure the federal government begins allocating funds on a need basis in 1960 for the federal interstate highway system.

He said Congress decided in a compromise measure on the "need" allocation in 1960 as opposed to the present system of area highway mileage.

Purkey's Only Pitcher Perkin' For Cincinnati

He Was Just Supposed To Provide Lift, but Is Carrying Full Load

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Cincinnati hoped to perk up its pitching when it got Bob Purkey from Pittsburgh last winter, but at the moment Purkey's the only one perkin' on the Redleg staff.

The Redleg corps has accomplished only two complete games and one shutout in 10 decisions so far and Purkey has authored them all, while gaining three of Cincinnati's five victories.

The 28-year-old right-hander, who won more than three in one major league season for the first time last year when he was 11-14 for the last-place Pirates, stayed unbeaten Tuesday night as Gus Bell's three-run eighth-inning homer beat St. Louis 5-2.

Purkey gave up 10 hits, but walked none and struck out three while reducing his earned run average to 1.04 for 26 innings.

Pittsburgh's Bob Friend also gained a 3-0 record Tuesday night, throwing a four-hitter that beat Los Angeles 7-1 as the Pirates won their fourth in a row.

The champion Milwaukee Braves took a full share of the National League lead for the first time this season as Warren Spahn also 3-0, rode a nine-hitter for an 8-4 victory over the Chicago Cubs. San Francisco slipped to second, half a game behind, with a 7-4 defeat by Philadelphia.

Gino Cimoli's third homer was the only Dodger run off Friend, who holds both Pirate complete games this season. Carl Erskine lost his first.

Spahn helped himself with three hits, two of 'em doubles, and drove in three runs for the Braves while Ed Mathews made his No. 6 homer good for two runs.

The way little Bobby Shantz figures it, he'd really have it made if they played only eight-inning games in the American League and all the clubs were like the Detroit Tigers.

The stubby southpaw extended his hex over the Tigers with a six-hit, 5-1 New York Yankee victory Tuesday — his 11th straight against Detroit since 1950. It was his second success in two 1958 starts and again he had a shutout until the ninth.

While padding Shantz' lifetime record against Detroit to 13-4, the decision also pushed the Yankees into a 1½-game lead. The other three AL games were rained out.

Shantz, 32, came to the Yankees from Kansas City in February, 1957. He was 11-5 last season, led the league with a 2.45 earned run average and was voted the AL's comeback player of the year in the AP poll after long-time trouble from a back ailment.

The Yankees counted nine of their 13 hits against right-hander Paul Foytack, two of them home runs by Bill Skowron, his first of the year. The two belts, the first Skowron has pulled into the left field seats at Yankee Stadium in two years, drove in the first three Yank runs.

Foytack, who had complete games in his two victories this season, gave way in the fourth when Shantz doubled with two out and scored on Hank Bauer's single. Rookie right-hander Bob Shaw then kept the Yankees hitless 'til the eighth — when Yogi Berra rapped a change up into the right field stands for his second homer of the year.

April Showers Brings Pain to Indian Chief

WASHINGTON (AP) — April showers may bring May flowers but to Cleveland Manager Bobby Bragan they are a pain in the neck.

He has his ace left-hander, Herb Score, rested and ready to pitch but now has seen him rained out of two straight starting assignments. Score has not pitched since he shut out the Chicago White Sox last Wednesday.

The Indians' game with the Washington Senators here Tuesday night was postponed by rain. It was to be the opening game of an 18-game tour of the east.

Score (2-1) still is the starting pitcher for tonight and will oppose the Senators' top pitcher, Pedro Ramos (2-0). Ray Narleski gets the call for Thursday night's game against Camillo Pascual, originally set to pitch Tuesday night for Washington.

Bragan is kicking himself for holding out Score from pitching in the opener of a scheduled double-header against Detroit's Tigers last Sunday in Cleveland. The Indians lost the first game, and the second contest was called because of rain.

The reason he bypassed the 24-year-old southpaw fireballer was that he figured Score would be more effective in the nightcap when it begins to become a little dim. But there was no second game.

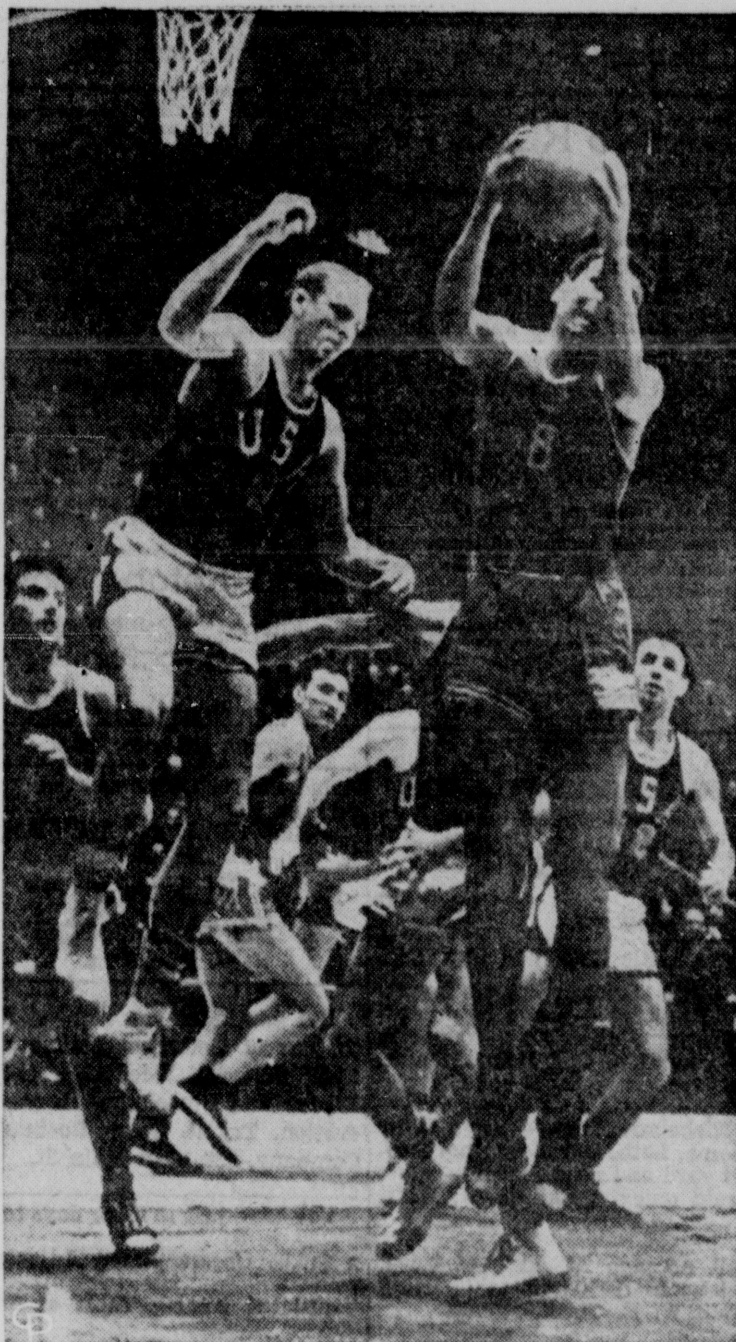

Gonzales Hikes Lead Over Hoad to 37-31

CLINTON, N. Y. (AP) — Pancho Gonzales boasts 37 games to Lew Hoad's 31 in their professional tennis tour after Pancho rallied to defeat the Australian 2-6, 6-3 and 6-1 Tuesday night.

Tony Trabert beat Pancho Segura 8-4 in a one-set match that widened his margin in their series to 27-24.

In the doubles, Trabert and Hoad gained a victory over Gonzales and Segura, 8-6.

CLUB SHOTS

The club sincerely regrets the departure of faithful pro Ted Moon. We will miss his fine golfing ability and dependable service. Our best wishes go with him to his new assistant pro job at the Elyria Country Club.

Two electric carts are now available at the club for the use of golfers. The handy little vehicles will take quite a burden off those who feel 18 holes make a long trip. They are cute, dependable and probably will see a lot of service.

Rick Spiers and his staff have put in a vast amount of work this Spring on the course and it certainly shows the effort expended. Along with the expert care given by keepers Deb Newton and Cliff Hedges, the course appears to be in fine shape.

A real windy day didn't keep Helen McGuire from firing a neat 58 recently.

Breaking 50 for the first time this year was Karl Herrmann. He turned the trick with a nifty 46 which included a birdie on No. 7. Ann White is taking lessons and promises to start playing again real soon.

Golfers are reminded to post all scores as soon as possible in order that handicaps may be determined.

Lots of birdies are cropping up already. Ruth Athey posted her first of the year on No. 9 and Mary Carpenter did the same on No. 2.

The club had a gang of men re-sodding the tea's several days ago. They did an excellent job but it will be a few weeks before they are usable.

Karl Mason and Abner Leach have been playing exceptionally good golf for this early in the sea-

Tim Tam, Silky Sullivan Favored in Kentucky Derby

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The steadily improving Tim Tam and the sensational stretch running Silky Sullivan were quoted as co-favorites at 5-2 today as the second richest Kentucky Derby in history loomed with 19 finely tuned 3-year-olds listed as probable starters.

As of now, the largest field since Count Turf turned back 19 rivals in 1951 is in prospect.

Based on a field of 19, the 84th running of America's most glamorous turf classic will gross $167,500, a figure exceeded only by the $167,550 of 1956, when Needles took home the major share of the purse.

The track condition will have a large say on how many parade to the post for the 4:30 p.m. start at Churchill Downs.

After days of rain, the weatherman today forecast somewhat cooler temperatures and a drying wind. With no more rain the track for the 1¼ mile race could be fast by Saturday.

A crowd of 100,000 is expected. Three horses commanded major attention today as the vanguard of the festive-minded crowd moved into this Ohio River city.

They are Tim Tam, a royally bred son of Tom Fool from the fabulous Calumet Farm of Mrs. Gene Markey; Silky Sullivan, the flaming California chestnut who has caught the fancy of the public as few horses have since Man O'War, and Jewel's Reward, champion money winning 2-year-old of 1957 who heads the three-horse entry from Mrs. Elizabeth N. Graham's Maine Chance Farm.

Tim Tam, winner of only $275 last year but victorious in the $100,000 Flamingo and Florida Derby this year, won the Trial Stakes Tuesday under 23-year-old Ismael Valenzuela.

The Texas-born Mexican was called on to ride the Calumet ace after Bill Hartack broke a leg last Saturday.

Ebony Pearl, considered third best of Maine Chance's three-horse entry, was second by a neck and C. V. Whitney's Flamingo was third, another 1¼ lengths back as Tim Tam negotiated the muddy trip in 1:39 3-5.

KO Specialists Due in TV Bout

CHICAGO (AP) — A young kayo specialist, light heavyweight Jesse Bowdry, 20, St. Louis, tries for his 22nd victory in 24 pro starts against seasoned Clarence Hin-nant, Washington, D. C., in a 10-rounder tonight.

Bowdry, making his TV debut, has scored 18 knockouts since he turned pro 2½ years ago.

Both his defeats were by Sonny Ray, the last by a knockout in July. Since then, Bowdry scored four consecutive knockouts.

Hinnant, 25, eighth-ranked by the National Boxing Assn., packs a knockout punch too. He has scored 20 kayoes in 25 victories.

Tiger Game Postponed

Rosary Nine Here For Tourney Tilt

Circleville's scheduled baseball game here with Hillsboro yesterday was postponed due to wet grounds.

It marked the second time the Tigers have been forced to call off games with the Indians. The Highland County outfit is one of the front running teams in the South Central Ohio League so far this season.

Circleville remains in first place in the loop with four wins and no losses. The Tigers are 8-2 for the season.

Weather permitting, the forces of Coaches Dick Boyd and Dick Fisher resume action tomorrow when Holy Rosary of Columbus comes here for an important test in the Central District Class AA Tournament.

THE TIGERS currently are riding a four game winning streak, the last victory being a 4-2 decision over Franklin Heights Friday. The entire pitching staff for CHS should be ready for the tourney bout. The front line hurlers are Mike Hosler, Don Rowland, Joe Adkins and Duane Dean.

Coach Boyd's lineup probably will include John Wright behind the plate, Bill Purcell at first, Rowland or Hosler at second, Cal Ellis at short and Bill Dickenson or Asa Elsea at third.

In the outfield it will be Dick Smith in left, Jim Woods in center and Harry Strawser in right.

Fenn College Seeks Fulltime Cage Coach

CLEVELAND (AP)—Fenn College is looking for a basketball coach and, for the first time in eight years, the school wants a fulltime coach. George Rung, cage mentor for eight years, resigned Tuesday. He had been a parttime coach and his teams won 34 games and lost 107.

Purkey's Only Pitcher Perkin' For Cincinnati

He Was Just Supposed To Provide Lift, but Is Carrying Full Load

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Cincinnati hoped to perk up its pitching when it got Bob Purkey from Pittsburgh last winter, but at the moment Purkey's the only one perkin' on the Redleg staff.

The Redleg corps has accomplished only two complete games and one shutout in 10 decisions so far and Purkey has authored them all, while gaining three of Cincinnati's five victories.

The 28-year-old right-hander, who won more than three in one major league season for the first time last year when he was 11-14 for the last-place Pirates, stayed unbeaten Tuesday night as Gus Bell's three-run eighth-inning homer beat St. Louis 5-2.

Purkey gave up 10 hits, but walked none and struck out three while reducing his earned run average to 1.04 for 26 innings.

Pittsburgh's Bob Friend also gained a 3-0 record Tuesday night, throwing a four-hitter that beat Los Angeles 7-1 as the Pirates won their fourth in a row.

The champion Milwaukee Braves took a full share of the National League lead for the first time this season as Warren Spahn also 3-0, rode a nine-hitter for an 8-4 victory over the Chicago Cubs. San Francisco slipped to second, half a game behind, with a 7-4 defeat by Philadelphia.

Gino Cimoli's third homer was the only Dodger run off Friend, who holds both Pirate complete games this season. Carl Erskine lost his first.

Spahn helped himself with three hits, two of 'em doubles, and drove in three runs for the Braves while Ed Mathews made his No. 6 homer good for two runs.

The way little Bobby Shantz figures it, he'd really have it made if they played only eight-inning games in the American League and all the clubs were like the Detroit Tigers.

The stubby southpaw extended his hex over the Tigers with a six-hit, 5-1 New York Yankee victory Tuesday — his 11th straight against Detroit since 1950. It was his second success in two 1958 starts and again he had a shutout until the ninth.

While padding Shantz' lifetime record against Detroit to 13-4, the decision also pushed the Yankees into a 1½-game lead. The other three AL games were rained out.

Shantz, 32, came to the Yankees from Kansas City in February, 1957. He was 11-5 last season, led the league with a 2.45 earned run average and was voted the AL's comeback player of the year in the AP poll after long-time trouble from a back ailment.

The Yankees counted nine of their 13 hits against right-hander Paul Foytack, two of them home runs by Bill Skowron, his first of the year. The two belts, the first Skowron has pulled into the left field seats at Yankee Stadium in two years, drove in the first three Yank runs.

Foytack, who had complete games in his two victories this season, gave way in the fourth when Shantz doubled with two out and scored on Hank Bauer's single. Rookie right-hander Bob Shaw then kept the Yankees hitless 'til the eighth — when Yogi Berra rapped a change up into the right field stands for his second homer of the year.

April Showers Brings Pain to Indian Chief

WASHINGTON (AP) — April showers may bring May flowers but to Cleveland Manager Bobby Bragan they are a pain in the neck.

He has his ace left-hander, Herb Score, rested and ready to pitch but now has seen him rained out of two straight starting assignments. Score has not pitched since he shut out the Chicago White Sox last Wednesday.

The Indians' game with the Washington Senators here Tuesday night was postponed by rain. It was to be the opening game of an 18-game tour of the east.

Score (2-1) still is the starting pitcher for tonight and will oppose the Senators' top pitcher, Pedro Ramos (2-0). Ray Narleski gets the call for Thursday night's game against Camillo Pascual, originally set to pitch Tuesday night for Washington.

Bragan is kicking himself for holding out Score from pitching in the opener of a scheduled double-header against Detroit's Tigers last Sunday in Cleveland. The Indians lost the first game, and the second contest was called because of rain.

The reason he bypassed the 24-year-old southpaw fireballer was that he figured Score would be more effective in the nightcap when it begins to become a little dim. But there was no second game.

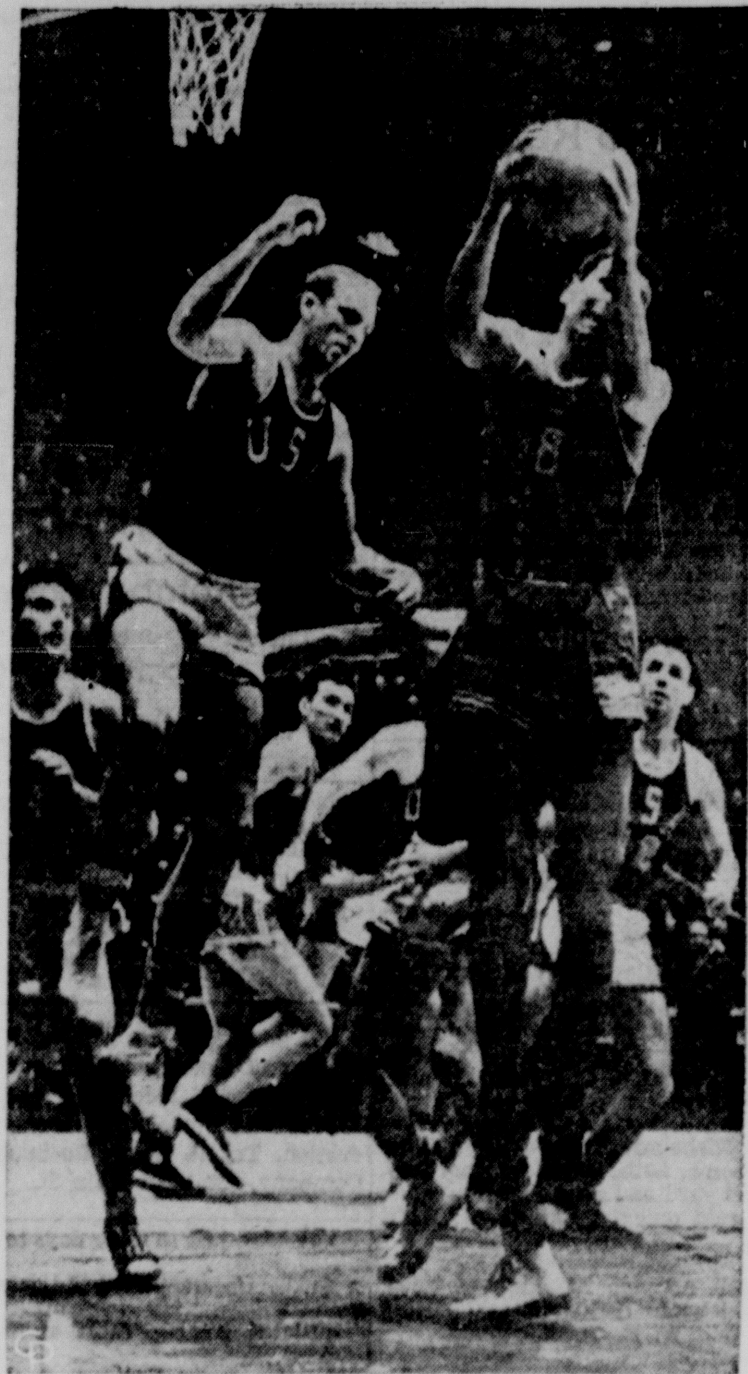

Gonzales Hikes Lead Over Hoad to 37-31

CLINTON, N. Y. (AP) — Pancho Gonzales boasts 37 games to Lew Hoad's 31 in their professional tennis tour after Pancho rallied to defeat the Australian 2-6, 6-3 and 61 Tuesday night.

Tony Trabert beat Pancho Segura 8-4 in a one-set match that widened his margin in their series to 27-24.

In the doubles, Trabert and Hoad gained a victory over Gonzales and Segura, 8-6.

A large sampling of the nation's baseball writers has declared in an Associated Press poll that any home run records set at the Coliseum should go unrecognized because of the paltry 250 feet between home plate and the leftfield foul pole. Thirty homers have been hit in the first 10 games here, more than half of them over the 42-foot-high leftfield screen.

But Friend, unbeaten in his first three decisions this year, suggests that the arena may not become a sacrificial altar for National League pitchers. One of his reasons: The vast proportions of right field.

"Why look at those two balls Rube Walker hit out there," he said, referring to a couple of 420-foot pokes that plopped in an outfielder's glove for outs. "Both of them would have been home runs at Ebbets Field."

Both his defeats were by Sonny Ray, the last by a knockout in July. Since then, Bowdry scored four consecutive knockouts.

THE TIGERS currently are riding a four game winning streak, the last victory being a 4-2 decision over Franklin Heights Friday.

The entire pitching staff for CHS should be ready for the tourney bout. The front line hurlers are Mike Hosler, Don Rowland, Joe Adkins and Duane Dean.

Coach Boyd's lineup probably will include John Wright behind the plate, Bill Purcell at first, Rowland or Hosler at second, Cal Ellis at short and Bill Dickenson or Asa Elsea at third.

In the outfield it will be Dick Smith in left, Jim Woods in center and Harry Strawser in right.

Fenn College Seeks Fulltime Cage Coach

CLEVELAND (AP)—Fenn College is looking for a basketball coach and, for the first time in eight years, the school wants a fulltime coach. George Rung, cage mentor for eight years, resigned Tuesday. He had been a parttime coach and his teams won 34 games and lost 107.

OHIO OUTDOORS

from THE OHIO DIVISION OF WILDLIFE

The 1957 boat and motor licenses expired April 30, according to V. W. Flickinger, chief of the Ohio Parks Division.

Flickinger said the new 1958 licenses needed May 1 are on sale at 39 state parks. "Each recreational area under state park jurisdiction where boats and motors are permitted has an office where licenses are being sold," Flickinger stated.

Cost of licensing a rowboat that carries five passengers or less is $1. Formulas are used to compute the cost of licensing sailboats, barges and powerboats.

A motor license can be purchased for $2, regardless of its size.

GENE Copeland, law enforcement supervisor for the wildlife division, said today frog hunting season will close May 1 and reopen because it's the time of year when frogs reproduce.

Early prospects indicate this may be a top year for Ohio's muskellunge fishermen.

Already this spring nice catches of muskies have been recorded at Ohio lakes. Taking the spotlight is Leesville Lake in Carroll County, Piedmont Lake in Belmont County and Rocky Fork Lake in Highland County.

Good catches of the mighty muskie also have been recorded by stream fishermen. The most notable stretch of muskie river water is Rocky Fork Creek below the dam impounding Rocky Fork Lake.

Other famous muskie waters are Sunfish Creek in Pike County and Wills Creek in Coshocton and Muskingum Counties.

ACCORDING to big fish records compiled by the Outdoor Writers of Ohio, the largest muskellunge caught in Ohio was taken from Wills Creek by Medard Cronin.

Phils Still Poison To Giants Outfit

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Philadelphia Phillies still spell big trouble for the Giants.

The Phils frequently made life miserable for the Giants in their old home at the Polo Grounds.

Tuesday, in the first Giant-Phil game since the team moved to San Francisco, the visitors bounced the Giants out of first place in the National League 7-4.

Philadelphia left-hander Curt Simmons found the winds off the Pacific both a blessing and a handicap as he notched his first victory of the season.

U.S. Cagers Chalk 4th Russian Win

MOSCOW (AP)—The touring United States amateur basketball teams were idle today after the men's team notched its fourth straight victory on its Russian tour, a 59-41 victory over a Georgian team in Tiflis Tuesday.

The AAU team will stay here Thursday to watch the huge May Day parade, then go to Leningrad for two games.

The women met with equal success, getting their second win in a row with a 43-34 triumph. They have lost two games.

In the pursuance of the order of the probate court of Pickaway County, we will offer for sale at public auction on the 8th day of May, 1958, at 2:00 o'clock p. m., at the door of the Court House in Circleville, Ohio, the following described real estate situated in the county of Pickaway, State of Ohio, to-wit:

Situated in the County of Pickaway, in the State of Ohio and in the Township of Washington and known as the South West 1/4 of Section Four (4) Township No. 11, Eleventh Range Twenty One (21) W.S. Being the same premises devised to Amanda Dunkel, Laura Dunkel and Malinda Dunkel by Amos Dunkel by Will dated December 12, 1908 and recorded in Pickaway County Ohio Will Records Volume 10 at page 3. Being also the same premises a part of which was devised to Malinda Dunkel and Amanda Dunkel by Laura Dunkel by Will dated April 7, 1920 and recorded in Pickaway County Ohio Record Volume 11 at page 312. Said premises are appraised at Forty Three Thousand Two Hundred Forty and no-100 Dollars and must be sold for not less than two-thirds of said appraised value, and the terms of sale are ten per cent of the purchase price cash on hand day of sale and the balance in full execution and delivery of deed within 30 days after day of sale.

Cleveland. It weighed 30 pounds and measured 47 1/2 inches.

This record may not stand long because muskies are growing fast in Ohio lakes. Test nets at Rocky Fork Lake, nucleus of Ohio's muskie program, have captured muskies weighing almost 25 pounds.

State fish technicians claim these muskies are five year veterans in the lake, stocked in 1953 when Ohio's muskie stocking program first got rolling. Other test nets show muskies of similar size are cruising in Piedmont and Leesville Lakes.

A new champion Ohio deer head has been discovered. Scoring a fabulous 242 1/2 points, this non-typical giant trophy is second on the continent only to a British Columbia whitetail deer killed in 1905, according to Boone and Crockett Club records.

The old all-time Boone and Crockett Club record of 245 1/2 points still stands, although this is the closest challenger by more than ten points in the more than 50 years the record has stood.

The massive beamed 24 point, 317 pound buck was killed by J. L. Clark on the back of his own little 40 acre Ashabula farm on the last day of the 1957 deer season.

"THERE is a runaway along Grand River where I kill a deer almost every deer season," said Clark, "but this one beats them all."

Ohio's 50-50 stocking program may account for the release of 45,000 ring-necked pheasants before hunting season begins this fall, according to Bill Hendershot, game supervisor for the division.

Hendershot said here today the 50-50 pheasant program is a co-operative project between the wildlife division and Ohio sportsmen.

"Under the program," he said, "the wildlife division rears pheasants until they are six weeks old. Then, they are turned over to sportsman clubs that care for the birds in their own pens until they are old enough to release at eight to ten weeks of age."

Most of the birds are released by the sportsmen. But the Wildlife Division may exercise an option under the project permitting it to release 25 per cent of the birds within 15 miles of the club's rearing pens.

The game supervisor said that last year 79 sportsman clubs in 44 counties participating in the stocking program released 34,200 ring-necked pheasants.

THIS year hatchery operations can be geared to produce 45,000 ring-necked pheasants for the 50-50 stocking project if sportsmen continue to show interest in the program.

The deadline for submitting applications to participate in the project is May 1, Hendershot added. He said applications and additional information about the program may be obtained by contacting the county game protector or by writing the Ohio Wildlife Division, 1500 Dublin Road, Columbus.

Calling all boys! How would you like to win a prize for fishing?

Among the many fish contests of interest to the Fish Management Section of the Division of Wildlife, Ohio Department of Natural Resources, is the one sponsored by the Boy Scouts of America.

According to John Pelton, head of the Fish Management Section, "This contest is of particular interest to us because, first, it promotes fishing, and second, but just as important, it is run by an organization that has always led in creating healthy, constructive youth activities."

Pelton went on to explain that all boys under the age of 19 who are interested in the contest can refer to the April issue of the official Boy Scout magazine, Boys' Life, which outlines the rules.

THE CONTEST started April 15 and will run until August 31, 1958. There will be 197 fishing equipment prizes awarded in 39 different categories.

To enter, a boy simply has to list the correct common name of the fish caught, the weight, length and locality where it was hooked. This information and the name and address of the boy should be written on the back of a photo of the fish and mailed to Boys' Life Fishing Contest, New Brunswick, N. J. An adult must attest to the entry by signing his or her name and address.

Among the classes for qualification are the largest catch of pan fish in one day (not the weight or measurement but the total number of fish); and the best catches of largemouth bass, smallmouth bass, dogfish, carp, blue cat, channel cat, muskie, northern pike, sucker and walleye. Brook trout, brown trout and rainbow trout are also eligible.

The fish may be caught in any waters of the United States and its possessions, Canada or Mexico.

Boys who are interested can contact their local Boy Scout organization. And as Pelton says, "What easier and more enjoyable way to win a prize than by just fishing."

Tom Jenkins In Line for Fat Pension

Pep once again had too much to let youth have its fling as he earned a 10-round unanimous decision over previously unbeaten Jimmy Kelley of Lowell before 4,191 here Tuesday night.

Willie displayed an assortment of punches in holding off bull-like charges to end the 19-year-old Kelley's 15-bout undefeated streak.

Kelley, bleeding from a cut above his left eye and the nose from the first round, tried gamely until the final bell, but couldn't catch the elusive Pep.

The victory was No. 213 for Pep who turned pro back in 1940 when Kelley was a child.

Pep, who weighed 129 1/2, to 132 for Kelley, was credited with every round by Judge Jim Carrig.

100-90. Referee Jim McCarron scored it 100-91, while Judge Joe Santarpio had Willie in front 99-93.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government will pay Rep. Thomas A. Jenkins (R-Ohio) $18,000 a year beginning in January. This is the biggest pension ever to go to a retiring Ohio congressman.

Congressional pensions have taken a big jump because they are based to a large extent on the pay rise—from $15,000 to $22,500—members voted themselves three years ago.

In Jenkins' case, the maximum is due because of his 34 years' service in the House.

The 77-year-old Jenkins has been under treatment at Bethesda Naval Hospital for nearly three weeks. He announced in a statement last week he would not run again because of failing health. Pensions of retiring congressmen are computed with a formula based on an average of the five consecutive years in which they received their highest pay. The size of the pension increases with the number of years of service.

Two other Ohio House members who will retire at the end of this year—Republicans John Vorys of Columbus and Cliff Clevenger of Bryan—will have completed 20 years' service each.

Assuming they participated fully in the pension plan, each will receive about $10,000 annually.

Vorys is 62. Clevenger is 72.

from THE OHIO DIVISION OF WILDLIFE

The 1957 boat and motor licenses expired April 30, according to V. W. Flickinger, chief of the Ohio Parks Division.

Flickinger said the new 1958 licenses needed May 1 are on sale at 39 state parks. "Each recreational area under state park jurisdiction where boats and motors are permitted has an office where licenses are being sold," Flickinger stated.

Cost of licensing a rowboat that carries five passengers or less is $1. Formulas are used to compute the cost of licensing sailboats, barges and powerboats.

A motor license can be purchased for $2, regardless of its size.

GENE Copeland, law enforcement supervisor for the wildlife division, said today frog hunting season will close May 1 and reopen because it's the time of year when frogs reproduce.

Early prospects indicate this may be a top year for Ohio's muskellunge fishermen.

Already this spring nice catches of muskies have been recorded at Ohio lakes. Taking the spotlight is Leesville Lake in Carroll County, Piedmont Lake in Belmont County and Rocky Fork Lake in Highland County.

Good catches of the mighty muskie also have been recorded by stream fishermen. The most notable stretch of muskie river water is Rocky Fork Creek below the dam impounding Rocky Fork Lake.

Other famous muskie waters are Sunfish Creek in Pike County and Wills Creek in Coshocton and Muskingum Counties.

ACCORDING to big fish records compiled by the Outdoor Writers of Ohio, the largest muskellunge caught in Ohio was taken from Wills Creek by Medard Cronin.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Philadelphia Phillies still spell big trouble for the Giants.

The women met with equal success, getting their second win in a row with a 43-34 triumph. They have lost two games.

Eastern U.S. Blanketed by Spring Chill

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Cold air moved into the eastern third of the country today as temperatures moderated in parts of the chilled Midwest.

The cold air moved southeastward during the night and spread to near the Atlantic and Gulf coasts and was expected to envelop all areas during the day.

Temperatures dropped from 15 to 20 degrees from Lower Michigan to western sections of the Atlantic Coast states and southwestward through the Ohio Valley, northern parts of the Gulf Coast states and into Oklahoma.

Temperatures in the frosty belt ranged from the 20s in the northern Great Lakes region through the 30s in the Ohio Valley and the 40s and 50s toward the leading edge of the cold air mass.

Showers and thunderstorms erupted near the cold air front in the South and East. Heaviest storms were in Texas, which was hit by rain, hail and strong winds in north, central and eastern sections. Tornadoes also hit Texas, damaging buildings, but no injuries were reported.

Only 1 Ohio Surplus Labor Area Gets Federal Assistance

WASHINGTON (AP)—Walter Reuther said today only one Ohio city with marked unemployment—Springfield—received extra business from the Defense Department in a 2½ year period.

The government has a program in which businessmen in surplus labor areas are supposed to be given an opportunity to bid on certain defense contracts.

Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers, submitted to the House Banking Committee a state-by-state report on his program for the period July 1, 1955, through Dec. 31, 1957.

He said the report showed the program to be completely ineffectual as an anti-unemployment measure.

For Ohio, the report said Springfield last year obtained Navy business totaling $117,324 and Air Force business totaling $31,664 for a total of $148,988 in preference contracts.

During the same 2½ year period, the following other Ohio cities were at one time or another eligible for extra business because of unemployment but, according to the report, received none:

Portsmouth-Chillicothe; Athens; Logan; Nelsonville; Cambridge; Marietta; New Philadelphia-Dover, and Zanesville.

The Defense Department's own figures, Reuther said, show that in the last six months of 1957 only three out of 86 areas in the "labor surplus" category received preferential contracts.

pressive list of zeroes in this report," Reuther said. "You will note also that the amounts involved are so small as to be in many cases ridiculous."

Unemployment has hit a number of larger industrial centers in Ohio since the report was drawn up. Examples of these are Youngstown, Canton and Lorain-Elyria.

Ohio congressional sources say the program is not much help in these cities, either.

For one thing, one source pointed out, with so many areas now classified "labor surplus" there is hardly any priority advantage left.

Those are the odds against a thief here trying to sell a television set to the man from whom he stole it. The 646,000 is the population estimate for Columbus.

Police said Charles F. Edwards, 27, admitted the theft of a TV set from the home of James H. Butler, also 27, and an ex-Army buddy to boot.

Detectives said after the theft, Edwards drove into a filling station and tried to sell the set for $35 to the attendant — none other than Butler.

Eastern U.S. Blanketed by Spring Chill

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cold air moved into the eastern third of the country today as temperatures moderated in parts of the chilled Midwest.

The cold air moved southeastward during the night and spread to near the Atlantic and Gulf coasts and was expected to envelop all areas during the day.

Temperatures dropped from 15 to 20 degrees from Lower Michigan to western sections of the Atlantic Coast states and southwestward through the Ohio Valley, northern parts of the Gulf Coast states and into Oklahoma.

Temperatures in the frosty belt ranged from the 20s in the northern Great Lakes region through the 30s in the Ohio Valley and the 40s and 50s toward the leading edge of the cold air mass.

Showers and thunderstorms erupted near the cold air front in the South and East. Heaviest storms were in Texas, which was hit by rain, hail and strong winds in north, central and eastern sections. Tornadoes also hit Texas, damaging buildings, but no injuries were reported.

Only 1 Ohio Surplus Labor Area Gets Federal Assistance

WASHINGTON (AP)—Walter Reuther said today only one Ohio city with marked unemployment — Springfield—received extra business from the Defense Department in a 2½ year period.

The government has a program in which businesses in surplus labor areas are supposed to be given an opportunity to bid on certain defense contracts.

Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers, submitted to the House Banking Committee a state-by-state report on his program for the period July 1, 1955, through Dec. 31, 1957.

He said the report showed the program to be completely ineffectual as an anti-unemployment measure.

For Ohio, the report said Springfield last year obtained Navy business totaling $117,324 and Air Force business totaling $31,664 for a total of $148,988 in preference contracts.

During the same 2½ year period, the following other Ohio cities were at one time or another eligible for extra business because of unemployment but, according to the report, received none:

Portsmouth-Chillicothe; Athens; Logan; Nelsonville; Cambridge; Marietta; New Philadelphia-Dover, and Zanesville.

The Defense Department's own figures, Reuther said, show that in the last six months of 1957 only three out of 86 areas in the "labor surplus" category received preferential contracts.

For one thing, one source pointed out, with so many areas now classified "labor surplus" there is hardly any priority advantage left.
